1. POPPING OUT. Junior Skyla Swire performs in the Pops Concert. "I am performing in the Competition Team's Show Choir Piece at this year's Pop's Concert," she said. "It's about taking a trip to NYC and seeing Broadway musicals."

2. DRUMMING STRESS. Senior Jade Torres plays the trumpet during the Pep Rally in November. She was also a drum major. "Becoming a drum major was a bit of a tedious process that included a virtual application, score study, leading a marching block, conducting the national anthem and participating in an interview," she said.

3. PREGAME LINES. Junior Zaria Anderson does her pregame ritual. "We are introducing the starting lineups. Me and my teammate (Lexi Thompson) are doing our pregame handshake," Anderson said.

4. CREATIVE JUICES. Senior Angelina Sanchez in her Advanced 3D Art class. "We were making masks as a project, and mine was a fabric mask that I had to sew together," she said.

ON THE COVER

1. FINAL PUSH. Sophomore Caroline Huston swims the 100-meter back stroke. "I wanted to finish and win the race for my team. It was really challenging this year because we lost a lot of seniors, but we did great as a team. We won the SEC and went to both states and sectionals," she said.

2. PRESSURE. Senior Gabriel Peixoto has strong feelings about the history of the boys soccer team. "There was lots of pressure this season especially on the seniors because we had so few. NBHS boys soccer has a very strong history and we always expect to do good during our season, but with such a young and new team there was doubts," he said.

3. THANKSGIVING DECOR. Junior Olivia Carpenter decorates her homeroom door for the Thanksgiving game. "We were decorating the homeroom door for the Durfee vs NBHS theme game during Pep Rally. I was genuinely just happy to be there and be a part of it, and super exited for the pep rally," she said.

4. GETTING THE BALL. Senior Sophia Perry competes for the ball against Dartmouth. "At this moment in the game, we were losing against one of our toughest competitors, and we didn't have possession of the ball. All I could think about was clearing the ball away from the goal and toward one of our offensive players in hopes of scoring," she said.

5. BOOK TALK. Junior Taya Carvalho participates in Book Club. "We discuss the book we read that month and we dictate our opinions on it. We also like to cast who we want to play the characters in a movie," she said.

6. RUNNING THE PLAY. Senior Anthony Diakite gets ready to run a play. "I am in my wide receiver stance ready to run the play that was called and execute. I'm looking for when the ball is snapped, so I can start to run my route," he said.

what did you expect?

did you expect a new principal?

did you expect a shorter bell schedule?

did you expect new breakfast options?

did you expect to get out at 2:12 half way through the year?

did you expect certain sports teams to perform better or worse than they did?

New Bedford High School is constantly evolving and changing to reflect its diverse and unique student body.

New paint and new windows symbolized a fresh start to the year with many new options for students being developed later on, such as a new grab-and-go breakfast program, making breakfast accessible to many more students.

A particularly exciting change was the Zeiterion Theater using our auditorium and stage system to entertain the surrounding community for their entire season.

A huge adjustment was needed when Joyce Cardoza was promoted to principal and Jeff. Longo as associate principal, with Judith Lima replacing him as the class of 2025 assistant principal.

No matter what positive and negative changes we faced as a school, we overcame and became stronger as a result.

STUDENT LIFE

what did you expect?

Traditions are strong at New Bedford High School.

We expected everyone to come together at the annual fall pep rally and for Whaler Wave to bring the spirit at every football game, though many didn't expect them to beat Durfee in the Thanksgiving game this year.

Students and staff pushed for a spring pep rally to celebrate our school spirit even more, along with special spirit days like wearing green for St. Patrick's Day.

Events like Homecoming provided something for everyone to enjoy, and this year each grade came up with innovative and creative fundraisers, such as the sophomore vendor fair and the junior Hetland skate and Dodgeball Tournament.

We appreciated all students and staff who recognized the importance of our traditions, but especially those who create new experiences each year.

1. JOIN THE WAVE. While checking out options for a new mascot costume at a September meeting, Whaler Wave members all love one of the options. "Whaler Wave focuses on building school spirit and improving the overall morale. We make skits for the Whaler Show and organize functions and fundraisers," freshman Whaler Wave member Margot Harrington said.
2. PLAYING THE PART. The fall play was "The Crucible," playwright Arthur Miller's classic about the Salem Witch trials. Junior Margaret MacRamos said, "'The Crucible' was a interesting experience because we had to mix false reality with truth, so a lot of the scenes we did, we had to fully understand the depth of what people felt and how to relay those authentic emotions to our audience."

Enchanted evening

Students dance, let loose and celebrate at Homecoming

1. PHOTO OP. Sophomore Lineidys Serrano gets her photo taken on the dance floor during the Homecoming Dance. "Honestly, Homecoming for me was like a movie," Serrano said.

2. SLOW DANCE. Senior Gabriel Peixoto dances with senior Jade Torres, who was one of those selected for Homecoming Court. "Being selected for the Homecoming Court was a fun and exciting moment because I was able to run with other people in a friendly competition," Torres said. "But I was also able to experience a moment of light on my name, and it felt silly but special because these things are what make the high school experience special."

3. GROUP SHOT. Photographer and senior Blake Borges takes a photo of (from left) Marianna Martinez Baptista, Jazmine Clarke, Diahja Barber, Mia Soares and Jasmine White. "I feel like they played music that was trendy and people were able to request," Soares said of the dance. "It's a great event for people during their four years in high school. It's part of a time line that people will remember for years to come."

4. CELEBRATION. Students dance as one in the center of the gym.

5. LINE DANCE. Junior Kyla Stone (center in red dress) joins in with a group of dancers at the Homecoming Dance on Nov. 17 in the gym. Stone said a highlight of the dance was when a large group did the Cha Cha Slide dance. "It was a blast getting to dressed up and taking photos and dancing with my friends," she said. "The whole dance, I didn't sit down once. It was one of the best nights with all my friends.

6. ON THE DANCE FLOOR. Senior Viena-Daniela Andrade (left photo) lets loose during the Homecoming dance with senior Saray Rios to her right. "I had an amazing night with my friends," Andrade said. "This year's decorations were beautiful. Some of my highlights of that evening was dancing and enjoying a night with my friends."

"A major highlight was dancing and singing along to the songs with my friends."
junior John Green Nunez

"The most I remember from homecoming were the decorations and everyone's dresses. My favorite memory from homecoming was taking lots of cute and funny pictures with my friends."
junior Narissa Blevines

Defining style

Where do you shop your style?

"My favorite place to shop is FRANCESCA'S because I love their colorful boutique clothing pieces you can shop all year round, not just seasonal. My style ranges from minimalist to free-spirited and Francesca's does just that. It's a perfect store to get basic dainty clothes to beautiful statement pieces. My go-to's from the boutique are dresses, sweaters and tops. My first day of school outfit was from Francesca's and so was my 15th birthday dress. With all these milestones Francesca's was there to help style me, and I couldn't be happier with my purchases."

"Thrift stores like MAD LILA because it's downtown, which is close and the owners handpick their clothes."
senior Kiva Bank

"HOT TOPIC/SPENCER because they have a variety of anime apparel."
senior Cody Souza

"I always thrift, so basically my favorite store to shop at is our local thrift store. The reason as to why I like THRIFTING is because there are unlimited amount of styles to choose from, and at a good, sometimes decent, price. Compared to stores at the mall, there are only a few different styles to choose from because they are what's 'in style' for that period of time, and the price would be five times more than what I can find at the thrift store."
senior Saray Rios

sophomore Sincere Morris

"PINK because their fragrances and they have good quality clothes."
freshman Jileidys Pagan

"SHEIN/H&M because they're not super expensive and they have cute styles."
junior Danielle Frost

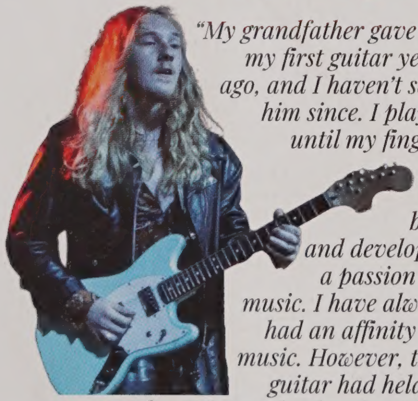
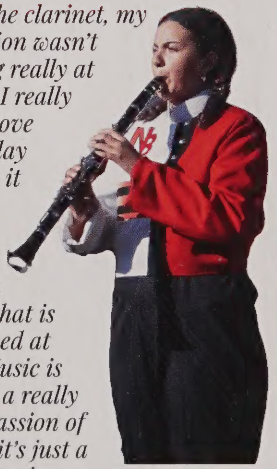
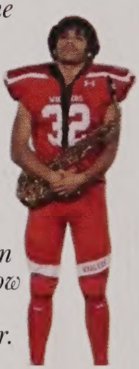
What is your instrument inspiration?



"My grandfather gave me my first guitar years ago, and I haven't seen him since. I played until my fingers bled and developed a passion for music. I have always had an affinity for music. However, that guitar had held so much sentimental value that I had promised myself to become the best musician I physically could. From there, I learned a multitude of other instruments including my voice."
junior Walter Norcross



"I play the clarinet, my inspiration wasn't anything really at first but I really grew to love what I play and how it sounds. It's like being a part of a culture that is overlooked at times. Music is also just a really strong passion of mine so it's just a great experience overall."
senior Elielis Fermino



"I used to play the clarinet and the band director asked if I wanted to swap to saxophone. I remembered the greatest saxophone players started on the clarinet so now I'm a great saxophone player. My inspiration would be the feeling of leadership because I had to step up [and be] one of the leaders of the new saxophones [this year]."
junior Luis Colon

Musical memories

The community comes to the stage

THE SHOW MUST GO ON. One thing no one expected this year was the Zeiterion Theater relocating to the stage of New Bedford High School.

While the historic theater was scheduled to be under construction through 2024, the majority of its scheduled theatrical and musical performances were staged in the Bronspiegel Auditorium. From the NBSO Holiday Pops Concert (left) to Dumline Live! (top), the school hosted many shows this year. The 800-seat auditorium was filled with thousands of members in the community with an appreciation for the arts.

Groups such as the Southeastern Massachusetts Youth Orchestra and The Showstoppers were given the opportunity to play with the New Bedford Symphony Orchestra for their families and friends.

Thanks to the new state-of-the art sound and lighting systems, the stage accommodated numerous performers from around the country who came to the school to share their passions.

SPRINGING into Pops

At the concert, Elliott Talley played "Prayer Meetin'" on the piano. He said, "One of the most memorable parts of the Pops Concert was getting to solo."
junior Elliott Talley

"The Pops Concert is one of my favorite performances that the performing arts do. It showcases all of the music ensembles, and I get to run around back stage, moving from one ensemble to another. It brings me joy and keeps me on my feet."
senior Ashh Antunes

Dodgeball champions

"I never had a doubt that we wouldn't win. Me and Ms. Grande had matching pink socks. I threw like one ball, but it was really fun, and I liked watching the other people playing while I was standing there. I don't think anybody knew that it (the team) was my idea."

HAPPY BDAY!!

Spirited away

Students go all out for dress-up days during Spirit Week

1. TAYLOR SWIFT BIRTHDAY GIFT. Sophomores Jacqui Bank and Yaritza Belen show off their "Rhyme Without a Reason" costumes during their first period AP Research class. "We both share love for Taylor Swift, so we kind of built off of that," Belen said. "And my favorite holiday is my birthday." Bank added, "We figured out that (Taylor Swift) rhymes with birthday gift, so we just thought that was perfect."

2. DUO DAY. Seniors Jensen Farnworth and Anthony Diakite on Dynamic Duo Day. "I thought we should've won the Duo Day because I personally don't think anyone looked better than me and Jensen," Diakite said. "But that didn't really matter, and some people gotta have more spirit and not think they are so cool." Farnsworth added, "We picked Eminem and 50 Cent because they're both rappers and we like their music, so we decided to mix the two into a duo for Dynamic Duo Day."

3. RAP BATTLE. Seniors Megha Patel and Keyanna Jones dressed as two famous rappers for Duo Day. "What's a more iconic duo than Drake and 21 Savage?" Jones said. "Bringing out our senior spirit calls for completely unhinged behavior and drawn-on facial hair."

4. QB AND WR CONNECTION. Seniors Dezmond Brunskill and Zakari Nunes mimic a quarter back getting ready to pass to a receiver. "It's really a simple thing," Nunes said. "We had similar clothing. We both realized we had jerseys from the same team."

5. KID STUFF. Seniors Emma Gibney and Cassie Martins dressed as Sophia and Rosie from "Ellen" for Dynamic Duo Day. "They are an iconic duo of our generation," Martins said, "and we just feel like since we're a dynamic duo already like them, it would fit. Me and Emma are always together, and we act just like them sometimes, especially when we sing together in the car," Gibney said. "We are the definition of a dynamic duo! Often times, if we are apart, people ask where the other person is because you can't have Emma without Cassie."

Glowing crazy

Dancing teachers, black lights and more at annual Pep Rally

1. ON THE DANCE FLOOR. The cheer team, including sophomore Madison Silveira, incorporated blacklights and fluorescent body paint and lettering on their outfits for one number during the Pep Rally. "I remember the crowd reactions during our performance and all the hype surrounding it," she said. "Performing gave a rush of adrenaline, and it made me happy that I could help create a good event for everyone." Senior Lexie Fitzgerald said she remembered when the seniors "beat everyone in the contest of throwing the hula hoops over our assistant principal. Another big highlight I remember is the cheerleaders and the football players doing their dance."

2. FLAG BEARERS. The Color Guard, including seniors Kimberly Jimon-Delacruz and Andrea Jimenez, perform during the Pep Rally. "A memorable memory I made at the Pep Rally was performing with the band and hanging out with my friends on the sides," Jimon-Delacruz said.

3. PUMPING IT UP. Senior Jayla Fermino and juniors Yaritza Alvarez-Ayala and Angelica Pires join in from the stands. "The highlight of the November Pep Rally was definitely the cheer performance with the football players," Fermino said.

4. STRIKE A POSE. At the end of one of the marching band's numbers, senior Karen Pires Tavares hits her mark. "A highlight of the pep rally in November was definitely seeing all the houses come together and have friendly competition, as well as demonstrating school spirit," she said.

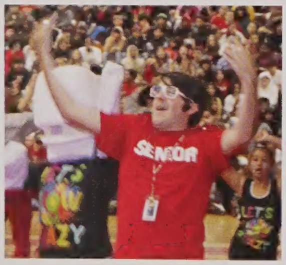
What did you expect from teachers?



"My favorite part of this dance at Pep Rally was being able to learn some dance moves with my colleagues and partake in something that was memorable for all our students. This was a fun experience for me and an opportunity to represent the Class of 2024 as one of their class advisors. The element of surprise is what helped me keep this a secret."

history teacher Norman L'Heureux

"At one of the practices one of the other teachers and I were being silly and doing tricks and the cheerleaders and Ms. Cardoza saw and thought it would be a fun surprise to have me flip in the actual pep rally. I really liked the idea of surprising students and thought it would be fun so I did it. I'm a dance teacher and have been doing dance and acrobatics most of my life."

science teacher Jayni Gryss

Breaking it down

Putting together Pep Rally, step by step

1 The budget comes from the Spirit Link sales. Money was used to buy glow sticks for the lights-off portion, house-colored items for the cheer team and decorations for the entire gym," Whaler Wave sponsor Kristen Liming said.

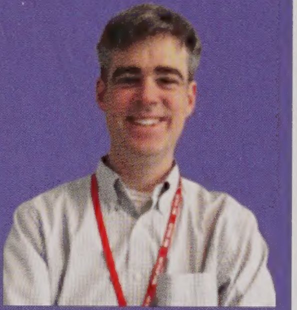
2 "Over the years we have adjusted things like adding in the activities parade (Ms. Lima's idea) to be more inclusive of all students. We do try and honor a lot of the traditions of the Pep Rally though as it has been such a success all these years," Liming said.

3 The cheer team and band spend multiple nights at school practicing until 9 p.m. or later the two weeks before. "We came together, collided our ideas and when we performed, we told ourselves we are going to have fun and we did!" junior cheerleader Georgina Rodriguez said.

4 "Setting up the gym is a huge task undertaken by our awesome custodians. The morning of Pep Rally, cheerleaders, class officers and Whaler Wave members are sent to the gym at 7:30 to hang up class posters and decorate," Liming said.

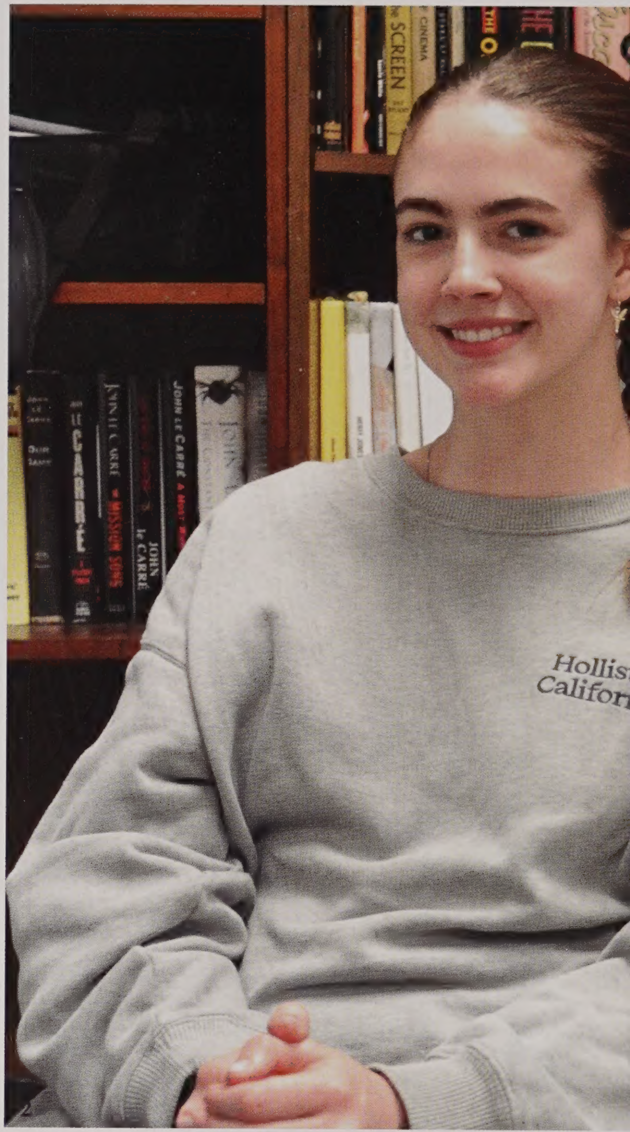
WHAT DID you expect?

"I was expecting NBHS to be intimidating because of its size, but the teachers were very helpful and welcoming when I first came"
ESL teacher Amber Quinn

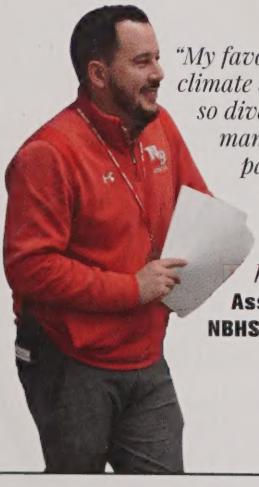


"I was excited to teach in the community where I live. I expected a vibrant and active community, and I have not been disappointed."
math teacher Tim Morris

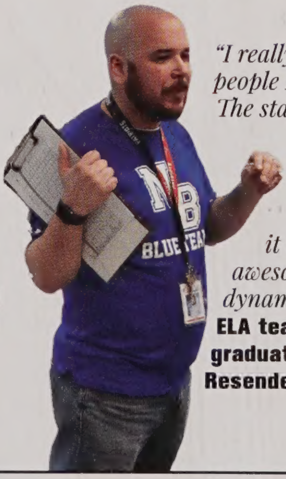
"A large school with a diverse student body and ESL students from around the world, situated in the unique environment of the city of New Bedford."
ESL teacher Geena Pham



What is your favorite thing about NB?



"My favorite thing is the climate and culture. We are so diverse and have so many course offerings, pathways, and extracurriculars. We truly are a comprehensive high school."
Associate Principal and NBHS graduate Jeff Longo



"I really enjoy the people I work with. The staff brings a great energy and the students are so diverse that it makes for some awesome class dynamics."
ELA teacher and NBHS graduate Derek Resendes

School ties

What's it like to go to school with a sibling?

1. STUDY BUDDIES

"It's really interesting to have a sister at the school, but I also really enjoy it because she helps me a lot with my school work as she's taken the classes I'm taking. We have class together, so we get to help each other so it's really great."

junior Mia Colangelo

"It's actually really cool having a sister in the school because she's so willing to help me with the stats homework because we share a class. Now, she can explain concepts when I'm absent and I miss class. It's really awesome having her around. And also I can really rely on her for help and just conversations throughout the day having her in the school we can vent about things it's awesome."

senior Isabella Colangelo

2. ALL SMILES

"I really love having my sibling at this school, especially having an older one at the school. It's really prepared me for what's high school's like. It's made me feel more accepted because her friends are."

sophomore Caroline Huston

"It's nice to have her at school because she is a great teammate and student in general. It's nice to see her enjoy her high school experience, and I am glad to be a part of it."

senior Annabelle Huston

3. ROLE MODEL

"I think it's good to have a younger sibling in high school because you get to watch over him [and] make sure he's staying on track. It shapes me to become a better role model."

junior Julez Johnson

4. TWIN-TASTIC

"It's weird. I don't talk to him and I sometimes I forget he's there. It's annoying."

junior Nolan Fox

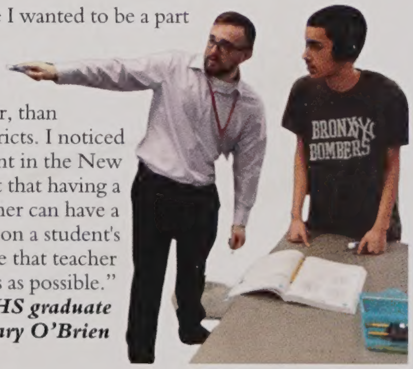
ALMA MATER return

"I came back here because I wanted to be a part of ensuring the education that students in New Bedford receive is comparable, if not better, than that of more affluent districts. I noticed during my time as a student in the New Bedford School district that having a caring and passionate teacher can have a considerable positive effect on a student's future. It is my goal to be that teacher for as many of my students as possible."

math teacher and NBHS graduate Zachary O'Brien



Playing the part

Students dive deep into ‘The Crucible’

1. ON STAGE. It was a “dream come true,” junior Av Acevedo said of playing Abigail Adams in “The Crucible.” “Working on ‘The Crucible’ was something I could never have even imagined. Not only did I have the most insanely amazing and talented cast I could ever ask for, I learned so much about myself through playing Abigail Williams. I learned how to deal with the hard aspects of portraying a character, how to be proud of myself, and how I could make the audience feel what I was feeling while on stage. I don't think I would have the same outlook on life and acting without the impact ‘The Crucible’ had on me and my cast especially because it's such a hard show to put on, it was truly a dream come true.”

2. BIG OPPORTUNITY. Junior Angelina Furness plays the key role of the suffering but charitable Elizabeth Proctor. “Playing Elizabeth Proctor (on right in photo) in ‘The Crucible’ has given me the ability to finally see my true potential as an actor. Acting has allowed me to connect with a part of myself that has been lost for so long, and this role alone has allowed that light to shine brighter than ever. Not only this, but I have received opportunities to advance myself in my acting career because of this role. I am truly eternally thankful to have played such a heavy, heartbreaking, and emotional role such as Mrs. Elizabeth Proctor,” she said.

3. QUICK CHANGE. Junior Maggie MacRamos said she substantially grew as a performer from her work in the play. “Specifically, what I got from my roles is how to switch tones and personalities when I have to quickly change in scenes. I also learned how to be engaged even when I’m not directly being talked to in a scene,” she said.

4. PLAYING PROCTOR.“Senior Elijah Carrion plays the key role of John Proctor, the tragic hero of the play. “I gained so much knowledge from playing John Proctor in ‘The Crucible,’” Carrion said. “Before playing as the role Proctor, I was Mr. Krabz in ‘The SpongeBob Musical.’ Those characters are so different; therefore, having to switch up my whole mentality and trying to capture as much of Proctor's personality as possible was a huge challenge for me. Overall, what I gained was learning how to broaden my horizons for acting and the skill of being versatile with the characters I can play in the future.”

5. GROUP SCENE. “I had a blast rehearsing for ‘The Crucible.’ The long rehearsals to put the show together are so well worth it in the end. The final production was an awesome piece of theater, and I am so very proud and honored to have been part of,” sophomore Olivia Coe said.

TIMELINE to SHOW TIME

Sept. 18: Auditions

"We had to prep a monologue about one-minute long and perform it in front of our Drama Club's directing team. There were various styles of monologues ranging from themes of heartbreak to even anger/frustration, all based on different elements of what each person auditioning wanted to portray to our directors. We have a large support system amongst each other and love helping and encouraging everyone who auditions."
senior Lillie-Marie LeClair

Sept. 19: Cast list

"The days leading up to the cast list and auditions are always hectic. Once auditions are finished, the cast goes to the group chat we have on Snapchat and talk about how it went. We all love reacting together, talking on call, etc.This is when the anticipation builds and usually the cast list is out the next day!"
junior Maya Ferbert

Sept. 20: Rehearsals

"Rehearsals for 'The Crucible' were so much fun. It always felt like even when you had a hard day at school or a hard morning, you always knew you could look forward to rehearsals."
junior Jamarion Slash-West

Oct. 16: Run-throughs and blocking with stage managers

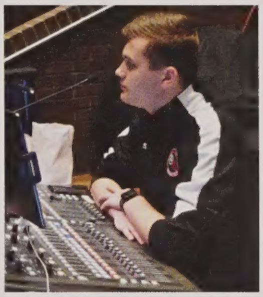
"Blocking is when we figure out where everyone goes on the stage. We start from the beginning of the scene and go through each stage direction and make sure everyone knows where they're supposed to be at all times. Basically run-throughs were walk-throughs with constant stops."
junior Jupiter Lincoln

Oct. 25: Crew brought in

"As the stage manager I took notes each rehearsal and worked on set pieces. When the show was running I was the one calling the cues."
junior Mia Colangelo

Nov. 27: Tech week

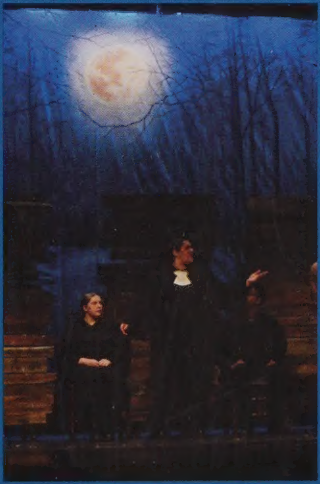
"Tech week is basically a week where we have drama club every day until between 10:30 and 11:30 p.m. It's a very long but rewarding process because even though we are all exhausted, we always put on amazing shows at the end of the week."
junior Jaelyn Rodericks



Nov. 30: Dress rehearsals

"Dress is a hot mess. Then magically it all just comes together. During the dress rehearsal, I am finishing programming all the lights. And then when we're actually running the scenes or the musical numbers, I'm the lead audio engineer, so I control the microphones."
senior Shea Lowney

STEPS OF Sets



"Set design starts with reading the play. We determine what is needed based on what is written in the play. Then we think about what else we can do to create the world of the play. In 'The Crucible,' we wanted to create the atmosphere of a New England town in the 1600s, but beyond that we wanted to create a feeling of darkness and lack of privacy. In order to create that atmosphere, we checked what the NBHS Drama Club has in stock. That is where we found the majority of our set pieces. We tend to keep items that can be transformed into other things by repainting or rearranging them. For 'The Crucible,' we had flats, which are like imitation walls, that were made to look old and distressed, perfect for the feel we were going for. We did not want the walls to be solid, and we wanted there to be negative space on stage so that there was a feel of impending doom and anxiety associated with being able to see through the walls that were not solid. Whenever possible we try to find artistic ways to connect the set design to the themes of the play. Anything we do not have in stock, we either shop for at other theaters or we make. Sharing between theatrical companies is very common. All of this is coordinated between the Artistic Directors and the Technical Director to ensure that the stage looks like the world of the play."

Marching orders

Marching band brings the beat to Pep Rally, games and parades

1. DRUMLINE. Sophomore Lucas Consoli wails on his drums during the Pep Rally the day before Thanksgiving alongside sophomore Kaleb McGee and senior Ashh Antunes. Consoli said his favorite piece to play was part three of the field show, while McGee said, "A high point this year was our indoor home show. Our percussion had a fun time just jamming out and performing music," and his favorite piece was from "Guardians of the Galaxy."

2. WAVING THE FLAG. During a home football game halftime show, sophomore River Hughes performs as part of Color Guard. Hughes said the high point of the year was the NESBA Marching Band Finals on Nov. 5, 2023, at Veteran's Memorial Stadium in Lawrence. "Even now it feels surreal," Hughes said. "The adrenaline you feel performing at that kind of level feels amazing, especially on your finals competition. The people who do this sport put so much into their show and to be able to share it with everyone is the greatest gift to any performer."

3. BRASS MAN. At the end of the first marching band performance at the pep rally, senior Kenry Myrthil blasts away on his trombone.

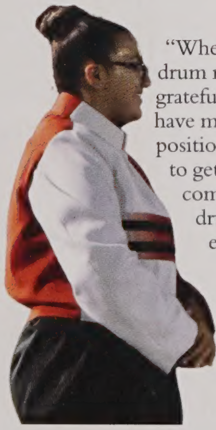
4. PARADE ROUTE. One perennial activity for the marching band is the Veteran's Day parade through New Bedford.

5. DRUM MACHINE. Senior Derek Fountaine readies his bass drum while waiting on the sideline for the halftime performance to begin.

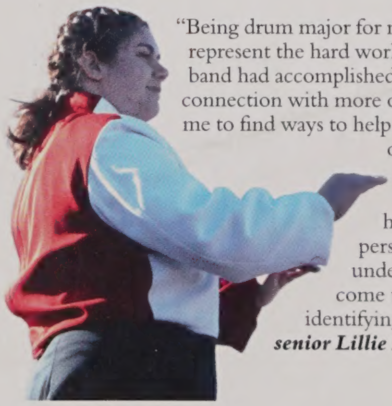
6. TRUMPETING DRUM MAJOR. Senior Jade Torres plays trumpet at a halftime show, but she was also one of the drum majors. "Helping student voices be heard and building relationships with underclassmen was a high point, and one of the most memorable things from the year was probably the Senior Night football game because all my family and friends were supporting me and I was able to perform at my last football game with such pride and happiness," she said.

7. SENIOR NIGHT. Senior Julie Torres performs with the Color Guard during senior night at the last home football game. "I felt it was the performance I did the best at," she said. "And also it was my last performance with the marching band performing 'Moon/Water.' Color Guard taught me that even if you aren't experienced at something, you will always get better at it as time goes on."

GETTING SOME major advice



"When selected to be a drum major, I was so grateful because I didn't have many leadership positions and I was trying to get out of my comfort zone. Being a drum major was very emotional and stressful at times but was very rewarding."
senior Jade Torres



"Being drum major for me was just a position to represent the hard work that everyone in the band had accomplished. It allowed me to gain connection with more of the band and allowed me to find ways to help more than what I originally could as a student leader. Being drum major has also helped improve my personal musicianship in understanding how all parts come together, as well as identifying tempo quicker."
senior Lillie Marie-LeClair

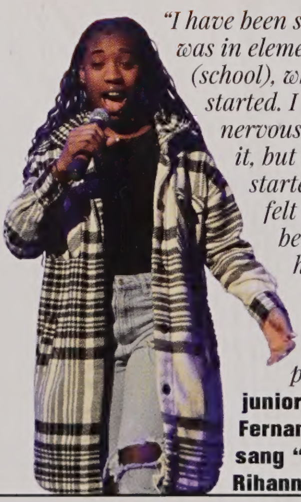
Meet the two Talent Show runners-up

"I have been singing pretty much my whole life. However, I started taking it seriously about three years ago. I started to write my own music, and now I am teaching myself to play the piano along with my songs. Going into the performance, I was a bit nervous on how I would perform. Then, I just gave it to God and he brought me through the whole process with him."

sophomore Dalahny Delvalle, who sang "One Name" by Naomie Raine



"I have been singing since I was in elementary (school), where it all started. I was kind of nervous leading up to it, but then after I started singing, I felt much better because I do have experience singing in front of people."

junior Juliana Fernandes, who sang "Diamonds" by Rihanna

Talent on display

Students shine on stage during Talent Show

1. MOB SCENE. Sophomore Alex Souza high-fives judge Jose Salazar, the previous year's winner, after taking first place in the Talent Show Feb. 16. Souza sang (inset photo) "I'd Rather Be Me" from the musical "Mean Girls." "I've been in choir for years now, but in the talent show since the fourth grade," Souza said. "Acting and performing has always been something I've wanted to do for years. Being able to perform a song that shows so much emotion for what happened, it's such a good feeling having people cheer for you. I was shaking a lot, but during my performance (with) all the cheering, I was getting more and more confident with it."

2. NO BONES ABOUT IT. Sophomore Henry Gold performs "Bones" by Sail North. "It's my inspiration, my escape from reality," Gold said about singing.

3. PIANO MAN. Sophomore Manuel Martinez Martin plays Chopin's "Revolutionary Etude." Martin had been playing piano for about four years. "Even if I'm not sure I want to play professionally, it is definitely the thing I am most passionate about," he said. "Music as a whole just resonates deeply somewhere in my soul, and without it I would probably be a completely different person."

4. OPENING ACT. Senior Xavier Fernandez, who uses "BronxHalo" as his artist name, performs his original song "Whaler Nation" as the first act of the show. "I was calm and collected before the performance," he said. "During the performance, everybody was working for me besides my voice."

5. PROBLEM SOLVED. Sophomore Tymir Holloway celebrates after solving three different Rubik's-type puzzles in about four minutes: a 4x4 cube, a 3x3 cube and a triangle.

6. RETURN TO STAGE. Sophomore Abby Sprissler, who also sang in the 2023 show, sings Ruth B's "Lost Boy." "My heart was pounding and my hands were shaking," she said. "I think I messed up a little bit on my song, but otherwise I did okay."

7. BRING THE ENERGY. Freshmen Teresa Jacob and Peighton Sousa sing and dance to "Beauty and the Beat" by Justin Bieber.

8. UP ON STAGE. Freshman Jasmin Mendes sings "Dreaming of You" by Selena. "My nerves were pretty mild," she said, "but after I was on the stage I felt much better."

Serving on the Mayor's Youth Council

"(The purpose of the Mayor's Youth Council is to) advise the mayor and the city government in a youth's perspective and advocating the usage of youth voices to help with the development of these city projects and rising awareness about prominent issues affecting youth. As a member, you have tons of work to do to help your community. In addition to community service projects I've met some of my closest friends throughout my involvement in MYC."

"We do a lot of different volunteering (or) community service activities such as helping support runners during the half marathon, volunteering at coat drives, leading team building activities, helping resolve city issues, and also work alongside local and state politicians to address issues facing New Bedford's youth."

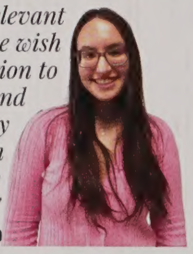
senior Annabelle Huston

"In the Mayor's Youth Council, we are a collective of young leaders working together, highlighting and advocating issues within the youth community, as well as general issues throughout the city of New Bedford."

junior Samuel Zhang

"We bring up important and relevant topics in our community that we wish to see change about. In addition to that, members attend city and school council meetings to stay up-to-date. We take part in volunteering at community events to stay involved."

senior Isabella Colangelo



Keeping it local

Students find ways to get involved in the community

1. WATER STATION. At the New Bedford Half Marathon on Sunday, March 17, seniors Kaylie Forgue (left) and Hannah Damasio help fill water cups at "stop six" along the route. "I love helping out my community in any way and seeing people that I knew running the marathon made it an even better experience. At our location we had a water station just around the six-mile mark. I not only got to help give out water but cheer on everyone as well," Forgue said. Damasio said, "It was exciting to cheer on each runner and fun to see people of all ages running the marathon. It felt good to support the runners by cheering them on and giving them water."

2. FILL 'EM UP. Juniors Owen Jupin and Madalena Morris help with water at the water station. " I knew a lot of people running it, and I wasn't personally able to run it. I handed out waters to the runners, and I think it went pretty well. I had a lot of fun cheering people on," Morris said. Jupin helped as part of the captains club. "It went great and a lot of runners took the water. It was a good opportunity to spend more time with the other sports captains and was a fun experience," Jupin said.

3. HELPING HANDS. Senior Jack DiMatteo helps out at the water station. "It is a fun social event to talk to other people," DiMatteo said. "We set up the cups over six folding tables. It worked out to be like 2,000 cups of water. Most of it was gone after everyone passed. Handing out the water is kind of a skill. You have to hold it at the bottom so they can just grab it and they're not fighting with your hand. You definitely will get wet, but it was pretty fun. We made a game out of it: Whoever could get the most cups taken."

4. ON THE POUR. Freshman John Paul Morris, who was on the cross country team, lends a hand at the half marathon. "It was a great opportunity to support my community and spend time with people I enjoy being around," he said. "It gave me motivation to run the half marathon next year."

Who is the standout performer?

"Skyla, she plays Jane Seymour, and she has the ballad of the show. It's one of the most emotional songs in the entire show, and she does such a good job at switching the emotions on and off and she created such beautiful riffs."
junior Jaelyn Rodericks

"Sky has done a great job at her role as Jane Seymour. She had to learn a very emotional song and portray the emotions clearly, and I'm excited to hear about the people she made tear up."

Face the music

'Six' and 'Singing in the City' create two-part spring show

1. TWO-IN-ONE. "Six" is act two of the musical, but there is an act one. It's a musical revue featuring a bunch of songs and soloists from different musicals. It flows really well with 'Six,'" junior Jaelyn Rodericks said.

2. QUEEN-LIKE. The best and interesting part of my involvement so far is bedazzling, my prop microphone and creating a bond with the queens in ix. It's such a emotional musical once you start putting your ALL into it!" junior Skyla Swire said.

3. CRAZY CREATIVITY. "The most interesting part is having a lot of creative control with our own songs," senior Destiny Garcia said. "For my song specifically, I got to choreograph the majority of my number, which I've never done before and that was a lot of fun."

4. A CLEAR VISION. "Being accepted by the older students as quickly as I did" was the best part of her involvement so far, freshman Larissa Semedo-Centeio said. "And it made feel more motivated and happy, and it gave me a clear mindset."

5. CUSTOM COSTUMES. "The costume making process was the most interesting part of the production process," junior Jaelyn Rodericks said. "All of our costumes are custom made, so it's been really exciting to watch the process and get involved with costume creation."

6. POPPING PROPS. Maggie MacRamos's favorite parts of Six "were the elaborate costumes. As well as the fun props such as the banners and the mics."

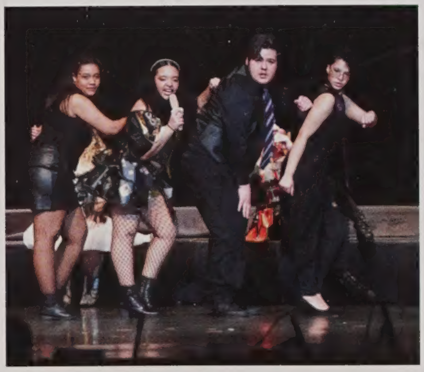
WHAT'S IT about?



"'Six' is from Tudor Queens to pop icons, the six wives of Henry VIII take the microphone to reclaim their identities out of the shadow of their infamous spouse, remixing 500-plus years of historical heartbreak into a euphoric celebration of 21st-century girl power!"
junior Skyla Swire

what did you expect?

No one ever expected our dismissal time to finally change, or for classes to become 48 minutes, but that didn't stop teachers from providing great activities for students.

Teachers always meet expectations to continue teaching through any changes our school experiences. From state of the art interactive boards given to 110 classrooms, to realistic dummies for the health sciences, classes received major upgrades this school year.

New Bedford High was also selected to be a participating school in piloting AP African American Studies, expanding the range of classes offered and allowing more students to study their interests, and, in this case, maybe even their culture.

At our school, everyone could expect to find classes that aligned with their interests and maybe even their passions.

1. PROVIDING ENTERTAINMENT. Junior Anjalique Pina handles the boom microphone for The Whaler Show. "We're always brainstorming on what to put in the next show, making sure it's appropriate and something for everyone to enjoy," she said. "One of the most interesting things about being in there is mainly the studio. When I first walked in, I was stunned cause it looked like something from a behind the scenes movie filming."
2. BATTLE FORMATION. During seventh period Battle Formation in October, sophomore Ana Macedo pins the new rank on the uniform of sophomore Liliana Bruno at JROTC's Battle Formation in October. .

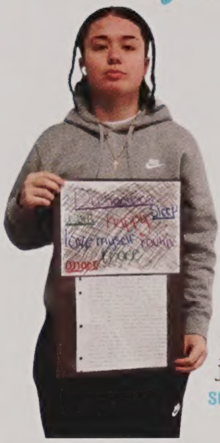
2. BATTLE-WORTHY. Junior Angel Diaz Madrid ponders his next move during a break in the action.
2. CONCENTRATION. Freshman Malachi O'Brien takes his turn controlling his team's battle bot.
4. THE BATTLE ZONE. Teacher Brian Guillotte set the zone in the middle of the room with colored lights to help set the mood. The class competition was won by the D-Block Gladiators, made up of junior Leonardo Zarate (far right), sophomore Robert Figueroa Algarin and junior Ryan Viveiros. "Our teacher would teach us about the robots we were using and the things that were attached to them," Viveiros said. "I think our team won because we did a lot of good teamwork." Figueroa added, "It was a challenge because the controls were weird and you had to play with someone else, so you had to figure out how to make it work."
5. NEW ROUND. Robotics teacher Brian Guillotte (standing) and senior Anthony Casimiro await the start of a quarterfinal round. Each round consisted of four robots trying to force a ball through one of the goals on each side of the battle zone.
5. NEW ROUND. Freshman Jensiel Sanchez Sanchez controls his team's bot while freshman Savannah Sousa waits her turn to control.

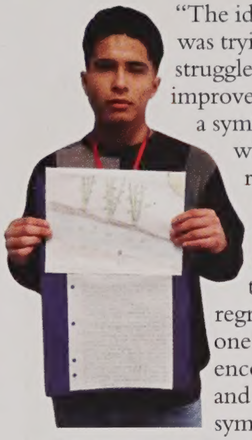
Psyching out

In first period AP Psychology, juniors Maddie Webb and Makaiya Lewis work on presentations of disorders, with Webb choosing personality disorders and Lewis choosing schizophrenia and delusional disorder. "Something surprising I've learned in this course was all the different parts of the brain and their functions and how they all work together to make us who we are," Lewis said. Webb was surprised to learn "the amount of perspectives the human brain is actually looked through and how multiple psychologists have different theories on the same subject."

What goes into a poster?



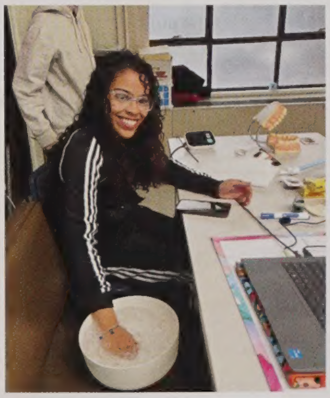
"My idea behind my poster was to describe what is going on in my head onto a paper. I tried to keep it very free and just let my mind work."
senior Lexie FitzGerald



"The idea behind my addiction poster was trying to convey my personal struggle in journey of self improvement. The bamboo is assigned as a symbol of strength and growth, which for my poster, the forest represents limitless potential and salvation. However, the figure in the poster is stopped by a coursing river, which is meant to symbolize stagnation or regression, an overall roadblock in one's journey, and upon encountering it, self-doubt forms and hangs over the figure's head to symbolize a constant presence. And if one cannot cross that river, then one begins to question if all their progress a lie."
junior Adrian Orantes

Classwork comes alive

BEATING HEART. In her First Responder class, junior Fin Gracia practices on junior Lauren Melo. "We were learning how to take blood pressure," Melo said. "It was exciting to learn and was very informative."



COLD HANDS. In the First Responder first period class, senior Brandy Pagan, a peer mentor in the course, serves as the subject for a "pressor response" experiment. "I participated in an experiment to compare my blood pressure before and after I had my hand in ice cold water," Pagan said. "I was able to keep my hands in ice water for 16 minutes."

News and features all part of Whaler Show weekly releases

1. Drama Club Spot. (From left) Juniors Jamil Gonsalves, Av Acevedo, Kayda Ribeiro, Jupiter Lincoln and Anjalique Pina rehearse a Whaler Show promo for the spring Drama Club production of "Six: The Musical." Technical difficulties with microphones caused the shoot to be pressed for time, as they tried to finish before the bell. "My favorite thing to do in The Whaler Show is just anything crazy I can think of, and try to make it into a video. It's nice to hear the people like seeing me and Kayda on The Whaler Show."

2. MIC CHECK. Radio TV teacher Doug Motta helps junior Jamil Gonsalves pair up small boom microphone with the camera for recording. "My favorite thing about working on the Whaler show is it's creative," Gonsalves said. "They're cool people, easy to work with."

3. CAMERA 2. As the second camera on the Drama Club shoot, freshman Cayleb Cac Toj tries to get a good second angle to use in editing. Cac Toj said working with the other Whaler Show members. "You have a good time with your classmates," he said. "Shoot some fun stuff, record some fun stuff."

COUNTING CARDS IN STATS

In Karen Silvia's second-period Statistics class, (from left) seniors Geovana Sousa, Mariana Sousa and Ruben Martinez use cards to illustrate probabilities. Senior Olivia Ramirez-Berry did a similar activity in Shukla Sengupta's second-period Stats class. "We were taking two cards out of the deck at random and putting down what we got and then putting it into the computer. We just went through and started putting in the probability of which cards would be, like if we were to get a red card," she said. "I would say there's at least a decent amount that we'll use, especially if you go into like engineering class or you want to take physics."

AP Research students marry their topics for the year

1. THE MARRYING KIND. Sophomore Maira Cristina Pacheco-Perech kisses her "wedding certificate" after "marrying" her topic in AP Research. Teacher Kelsey Turner put on the activity each year to emphasize to the students that they were committing themselves to their one topic until they submitted their papers in late April.

2. GROUP CEREMONY. Kelsey Turner's (kneeling in front) third period AP Research class takes a group photo after everyone "married" their topic in class the week before December break.

3. POSTER PROJECT. Sophomores Audrey Sousa and Jacqui Bank work on their poster presentations for Bretton Zinger's AP Research class. The students would use their posters when they pitched their final plan for their project to the rest of the class for feedback before they started gathering data.

4. FINAL TOUCHES. Sophomore Yaritza Belen puts down the final bits of text on her poster.

5. TABLE IS SET. Kelsey Turner goes all out for the wedding reception in her classroom after the marriage of students to topics in her third period.

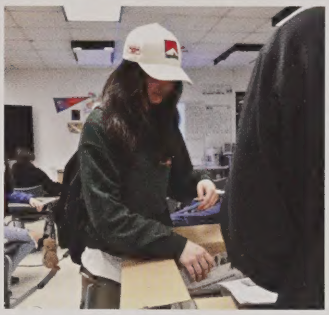
Whaler Post produces news for the masses



1. UNBOXING. Junior Ava Kaplan unpacks the first issue of The Whaler Post on Jan. 18. The newspaper, which was distributed for free was the product of the Journalism 1 class, and Kaplan was a co-editor-in-chief. "Journalism has been a recent passion of mine that I discovered this past year, and something I am planning on doing in the future," she said. "Having the ability to be a part of something so exciting and influential was not only eye opening, but overall a fun experience. It gave me a taste of what my future may look like."

2. LAYOUT WORK. The design editor of The Whaler Post, senior Skylar DaRocha, and co-editor- in-chief Adrian Orantes put the pieces together for the second issue. "I honestly felt really good with the first issue. It was a good start for our class and the feedback was really positive," Da Rocha said. "Being the design editor, I enjoyed having the ability to actually create the paper and make sure that everything had blended together in the best way possible."About the second issue, junior Adrian Orantes said, "This was the first time of any sort I was a part something significant, so I was reluctant but determined. Being co-editor is a constant learning experience for the better as learning how to plan ahead & communicate with team members are both critical skills in whatever I decide to pursue in college so to get a taste of that now was imperative ."

3. DISTRIBUTION DAY. Students in the senior cafe take a look at the first issue of The Whaler Post. The paper was distributed in the cafeterias, house offices and a few other spots around the building.

Senior Lindsey Hebert (middle back row) said, "My choir teacher punishes children by beating them with pool noodles when somebody sings the wrong words or goes off-key." Senior Cassandra Ellis (right back row) added, "Ms. D. said, 'Beware the pool noodle!' When someone does not sing the note right, she takes out the pool noodle."

2. SETTING THE STAGE. For the "aperture assignment," where students manipulate the depth of field for varied effects on the image, freshman Michael Gonzalez sets up items for a still life in his Intro to Digital Photography class .
3. UP CLOSE. Getting as close as possible and still maintaining focus, freshman Stacey Correia Fortes lines up her shot of a small toy. Getting close helped separate the background through focus.
4. CHECKING THINGS OVER. Freshman Mauricio Olmos reviews the settings on his digital camera in Matthew Poyant's fifth-period Intro to Digital Photography class.
5. PLAYING WITH LIGHT. Junior Yahir Cardona sets up a toy iron man during an exercise in playing with light and shadow. "What I like is the freedom in taking any photo you want," he said.

MUSIC CLASSES

What's your instrument?

"I like the [cello] because it is a fun way to pass time when I get bored sometimes, and the hardest part is playing in tune all the time."
sophomore Tucker Duarte

"I have never had proper training before going into the violin, which caused quite a challenge for me, especially since I was accidentally placed in the advanced classes with no way out. However, I accepted the challenge, and I grew to love the emotions and feeling that was put into playing."
sophomore Kayla Ferreira

"I grew up attending church every Sunday, but in addition to going because my mother forced me, I went to listen to the pianist. There are many difficult things when learning to play piano. I think controlling your right hand and your left hand independently and simultaneously is the most difficult."

Impromptu lesson in volcanic eruptions

MINOR EXPLOSION. On the second day of the English MCAS as a fun activity, chemistry teacher Jayni Gryss demonstrates the "volcano experiment" as sophomore Kevin Liu, who suggested the experiement, watches. "I'm watching a chemical reaction with baking soda and vinegar fill up a balloon with carbon dioxide," Liu said. "We had a free day because of MCAS and the teacher wanted to chill out." Junior De Andre Langford said, "When the baking soda hit the mixture of water and vinegar it forms bubbles and all the carbon dioxide came to the top filling the balloon with the carbon dioxide, I thought this experiment was really cool because it showed what happens a chemical reaction occurs."

1. APCS FUN. Junior Luke Tarpey watches junior Derek Flores play FIFA after a presentation in the auditorium about e-sports, which included members of the New England Revolution.

2. COMPETITIVE FIRE. Juniors Desmond Vann (left) and Camerin Haskell battle in FIFA, the soccer video game on Playstation 4.

3. ROOKIE PLAYER. Senior Lily Brine plays FIFA for the first time. "I had never played the game before, and something I found interesting or learned is that every MLS team has an Esports player that plays FIFA and goes to competitions to represent the team," she said.

4. PLAYING ALONG. Seniors Keneth Guerra Medina and Timmothy Erickson focus on their FIFA game after the presentation.

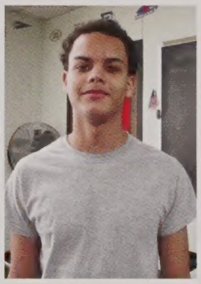
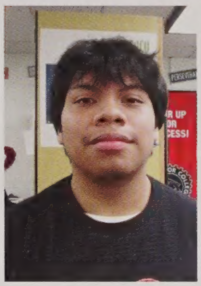
GEAR UP

College planning done right



"Gear Up has helped me out by helping me get accepted into my first-choice college, Ms. Santos helped me create my applications and helped me out with applying for scholarships."

senior Eduardo Camilo



"I come from a family with no higher education, and I had no resources. Therefore, Gear Up helped me out by explaining the college application process and the difference between early action, early decision and regular decision."

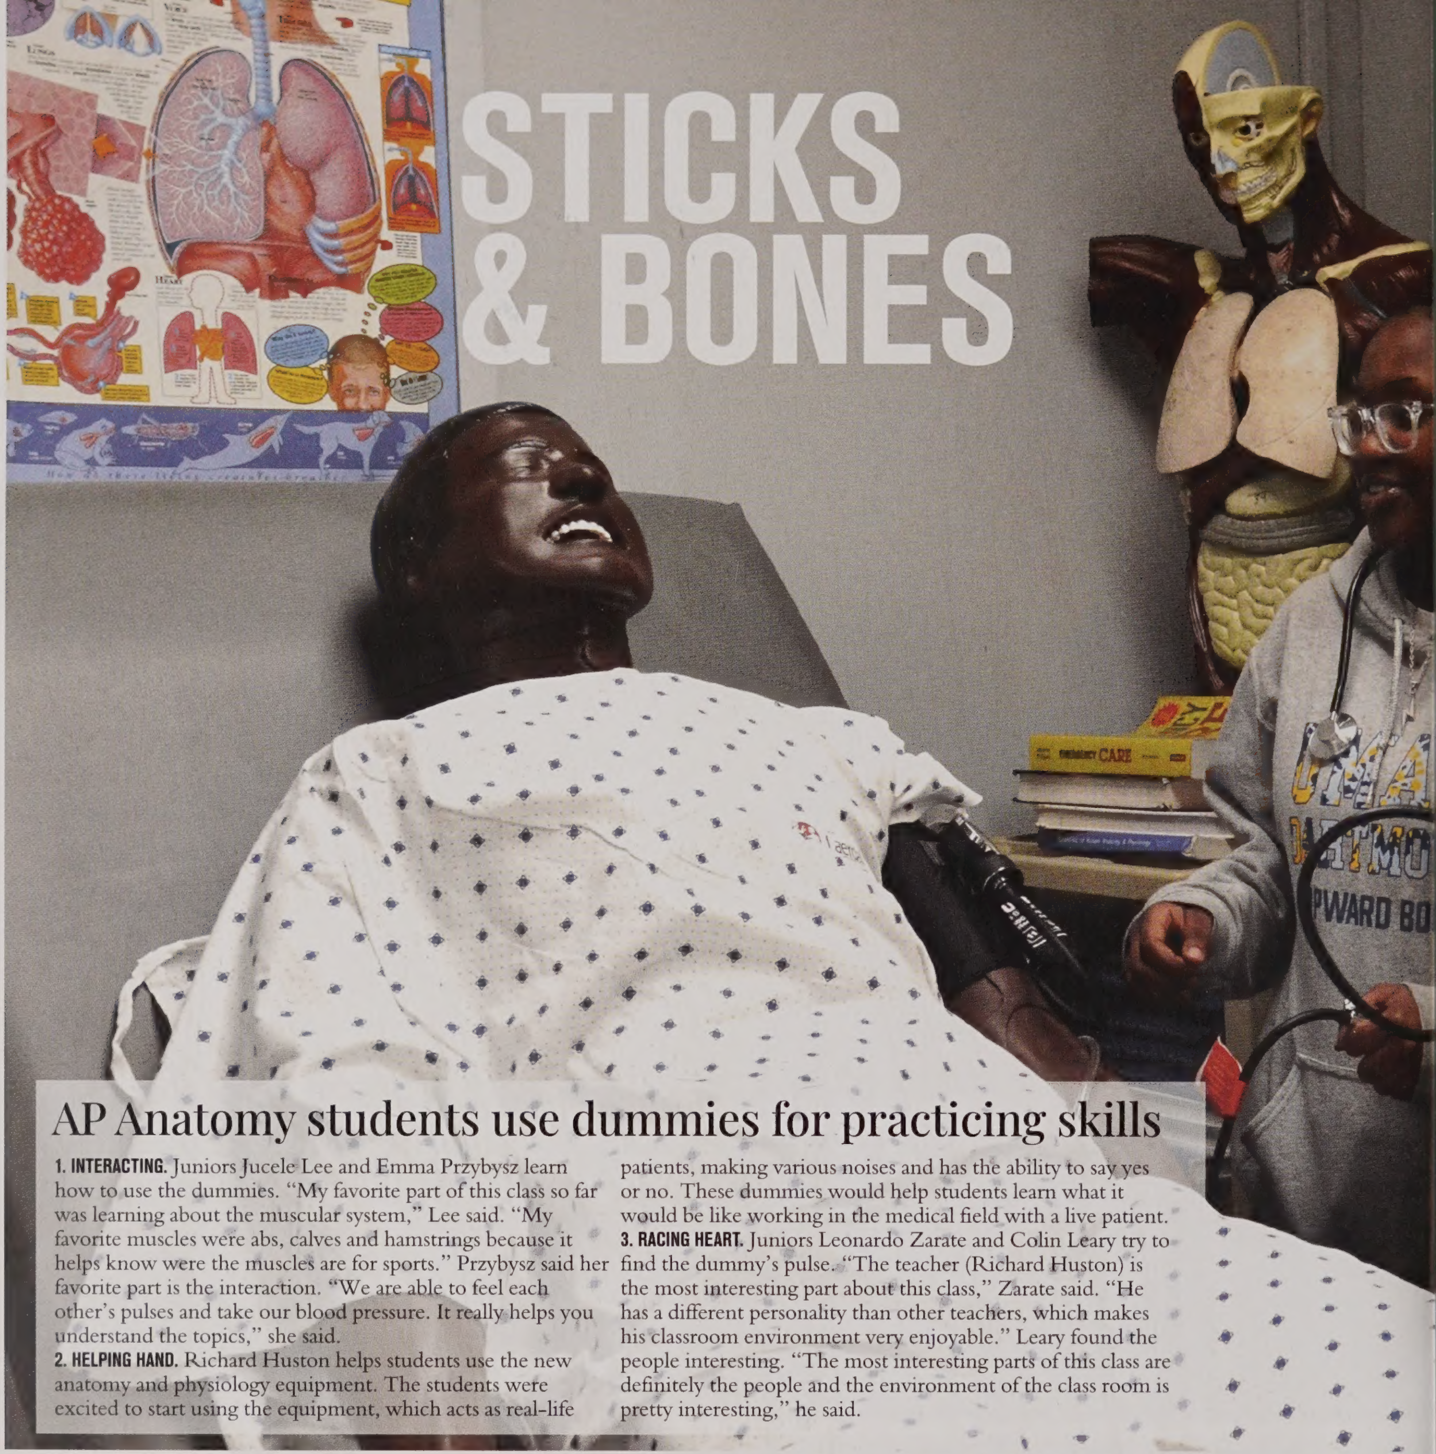
senior Henry Aj

"Gear Up has been an amazing opportunity for me to apply for many scholarships and getting advice for college applications. For the past few years that I've been in gear up Ms. Santos provided so much insight for not just college but for academic help as well."

senior Isabella Colangelo

High-level language classes pose big challenges to students

NO ENGLISH ALLOWED. Honors Portuguese teacher Sonia Lopes expects only Portuguese to be spoken once class starts. "We spend a lot of time actually speaking Portuguese. As soon ans the teacher talks, everything is in portguese," junior Nini Tran said, "It takes a lot of time figuring out how to say things. I feel that writing it is fairly easy, but speaking it in words is so much harder."



STICKS & BONES

AP Anatomy students use dummies for practicing skills

1. INTERACTING. Juniors Jucele Lee and Emma Przybysz learn how to use the dummies. "My favorite part of this class so far was learning about the muscular system," Lee said. "My favorite muscles were abs, calves and hamstrings because it helps know were the muscles are for sports." Przybysz said her favorite part is the interaction. "We are able to feel each other's pulses and take our blood pressure. It really helps you understand the topics," she said.

2. HELPING HAND. Richard Huston helps students use the new anatomy and physiology equipment. The students were excited to start using the equipment, which acts as real-life patients, making various noises and has the ability to say yes or no. These dummies would help students learn what it would be like working in the medical field with a live patient.

3. RACING HEART. Juniors Leonardo Zarate and Colin Leary try to find the dummy's pulse. "The teacher (Richard Huston) is the most interesting part about this class," Zarate said. "He has a different personality than other teachers, which makes his classroom environment very enjoyable." Leary found the people interesting. "The most interesting parts of this class are definitely the people and the environment of the class room is pretty interesting," he said.

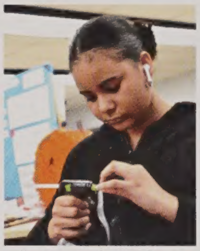
INTRO TO 3D ART

The faces behind the masks

"My mask was based off of the DC comics anti hero Red Hood, and the way it was constructed was by applying multiple layers of paper mache. Then I cut some of the mask off at the top of each side to just above the space in between the eyebrows in a v-shape and four small holes on the side, and then I applied white gesso to both the inside and outside of the mask as a way to hold the mask together better. After the white gesso solidified, I applied black gesso to inside of the mask and on the front on the top half and around the eyes to make the black stand out. And after all the black gesso solidified, I applied red paint to the front bottom half of the mask and hot glued white see-through fabric to the inside of the mask."

senior Anthony Casimiro



"My initial idea was to make a mask only in black and white, but soon after, when looking at the options of items in class, I ended up changing my mind and added pink. I made the mask with paper mache. I painted it with black plaster. I put feathers on the right side and added a lot of glitter all over the mask, as well as some gems around the eyes.My favorite part was painting some lines on the mask, all of this using only the colors black, white and pink."

ROTC's Battle Formation

1. NEW HARDWARE. (From left) , senior Timmothy Erickson gets help with his new epaulets from freshmen Janiya DeBurgo and Philip Nunes during ROTC's Battle formation in the gym.

2. PLATOON CADENCE. Sophomore Peter Matias shouts out his platoon's cadence. "All of the ROTC companies come together in one gym to give out promotions and give us a speech to tell us how far we've come in this program and how much farther we can go," Matias said. "Most of us were laughing and having fun and when we all got our promotions we clapped and yelled."

what did you expect?

New Bedford High boasts student athletes of all different levels and backgrounds and gives each of them the opportunity to compete in their sport of choice.

Some highlights were both swim teams winning SEC championships, and the boys soccer team making it to the state competition. Six winter track athletes competed in nationals in Virginia Beach as did five wrestlers in April.

We expected our facilities to reflect the hard work and dedication of our athletes and this year major improvements were introduced. The new pool was finally completed just in time for swim season, as was the new turf field for spring girls lacrosse and fall field hockey. New pickleball courts will be able to be enjoyed by all students.

The spirit from new upgrades and achievements from this year will carry onto our athletes in the future.

1. ALMOST THERE. Junior Jaliyah Perry (20) dribbles the soccer ball amid teammates as they moved upfield. "The most interesting thing that occurred in soccer this year was at the end of the year when the coaches allowed the team to dress up in costumes for our last practice," Perry said. "We played a bunch of soccer games and celebrated the end of our soccer year."
2. TO THE FINISH. Junior Hugo Jacob Reig swims the 100-meter breaststroke in the newly refurbished pool. "There were more people this year, making the season more enjoyable," Jacob said. "Winning the SEC championships, participating in meets, as well as breaking my personal records were my high points of the season."

IN THE ZONE

1. HUDDLE UP. Quarterback Colin Rodrigues is in the huddle giving the play to his teammates -- senior captain Dezmond Brunskill, junior Bryan Monteiro, junior Jarren Goodine, and senior captain Anthony Diakite -- in the game against SEC rivals Dartmouth. Senior captain Tayel Guzman said, "It didn't go how it was supposed to. We had high hopes but fell short of what we were supposed to achieve."

2. BOOT IT. Kickoff is taken by senior kicker Anthony Diakite. "Playing both roles as kicker and wide receiver, I put my all into the game. Even though kicking is not my main position, I try to do the best I can when I'm out there," Diakite said.

3. PASS PLAY. Quarterback Colin Rodrigues throws the ball to his receiver in the game against Lincoln-Sudbury.

4. WATCH YOUR BACK. Senior captain Zakari Nunes makes his move on defense to track down Dartmouth's player. "Throughout the season I really pushed myself to be better and make the most of senior year. With there being two running backs I had to make sure I made the most with my plays" Nunes said.

5. FIRST DOWN. Junior Jarren Goodine runs past Lincoln Sudbary in hopes to gain more yards."After I score, usually my whole team comes to celebrate with me to congratulate me and I feel like it doesn't motivate just me but the rest of the team to get more touchdowns so we can keep celebrating together," Goodine said.

WHY IS YOUR NUMBER SIGNIFICANT?

"My number is 6. Back when I thought I was gonna play offense, if I scored I wanted to point at my jersey to represent 6 points."
senior captain Edenilson Semedo said

"7 because my number growing up was always 34 because of all the running backs I looked up to wore that number. But I wanted to change it to a smaller number but keep the number involved so I added them together."
senior captain Zakari Nunes

What's your favorite weight room exercise?

"Bench press because it strengthens a good amount of my upper body."
senior Kevin Gomes-Fontes

"Ab workouts, bench, squats, hammer curls. These are simple but effective workouts."
junior Shane Neves-Medeiros

"Bench press because I find it to be fun testing my limits and seeing how much weight I can put on the bar."

ALL SMILES

"Watching everyone play my senior year and winning (vs. Framingham) meant a lot to me especially because there was so much animosity between the teams."
senior captain Dezmond Brunskill

STICKING WITH IT

Boys in F. Hockey

"I play the same position as the girl that got hit, and I feel as though the gender of the person doesn't matter. What matters is the skill set of the player. This year, I got hit in the hand off of a corner and thought I broke my hand. That person that hit the ball was a girl. I feel rather than shaming boys out of playing, they should make more strict face gear rules."
junior Emily DaCosta

1. UP THE FIELD. Senior captain Sophia Perry looks up field for an open teammate in their game at Dartmouth High School. "This season was easily my favorite," Perry said. "I got my first ever career goal versus Bishop Stang on the rare occurrence of a penalty stroke, and it was so great to get to celebrate with all of my teammates." Along with her goal against Bishop Stang, she was able to notch four assists, making her a key contributer to the offense.

2. HUDDLE UP. Between the first and second period, coach Kathryn Rezendes gathers her team for a pep talk in the senior night game versus Old Rochester Regional High School. "Having her as a coach was one of my favorite parts of high school," senior captain Lilian Brine said. "She always makes sure that everyone feels included and never picked favorites. All the personality she shows while she's in the school amplifies when we get onto the field, and it was so amazing getting to have a coach with such a genuine love for the sport, which I believed helped contribute to our continued success."

3. OFF THE LINE. Junior Emily DaCosta, sophomore Yaritza Belen, senior Kiva Bank and junior Angilee Rodriguez come off of the line to protect their keeper, senior captain Lauren Mitchell, on the corner hit. "I've always found corners so intense," Mitchell said. "To some extent I find them enjoyable, because they are easier to understand. It gives the team a great chance to slow the game down and catch their breath." Mitchell had her season high of 15 saves versus Dartmouth High School's fast-paced offense.

WHAT IS THE HARDEST PART?

"Making sure to find your teammate on a pass. With the conflicting sticks, it's important to be as accurate as possible."
junior Ashlynne Rysz

"I think the hardest part of field hockey is working as a team to finish the play and put the ball in the back of the goal."
sophomore Piper Reis

"To be able to think and play fast. The game is very quick, but you need to be able to make quick and smart decisions quickly."

BRING IT FULL CIRCLE

Who's your favorite athletic trainer?

"Nate because he makes me laugh."
junior Na'Rya Burgos

"Mr. Heydt because he would wrap my knee almost everyday for volleyball season."
senior Maria Rubio

1. GET READY. Before a home volleyball game, the players have their ritual that consists of them running out onto the court with music and running around and then forming a circle around each other until they complete a full circle. "It was important for us to do during home games because it was a way for us all to come together and get hyped before the game started," senior captain Maria Oliveira said. "It allowed for us to kind of center ourselves and focus on playing our best, supporting each other like a team." Senior captain Annabelle Huston said, "We all run out and huddle in the middle of the court to get our energy and confidence up. I think this pre-game ritual helped us shake off the nerves and get excited for the game."

2. SPIKING AWAY. Junior Lily Gonet sets up to serve the ball to the opposite team, aiming to get an ace. "I had so much fun this season playing with my teammates," Gonet said. "We all really improved over the season."

3. SERVE QUEEN. Senior Iriana Carrion throws the ball high up in the air to serve. Carrion kept specific things in mind when preparing to serve. "When it comes to serving there is a few things I like to keep in mind: One, aim for a target on the opposite team. Two, always follow through with swing and hit it with as much power as you can. Three, even with a lot of eyes, especially a coach and teammates, you feel a lot of pressure, but focus on what you love doing, drown out any background noise and focus on hitting the ball just right and just enough," she said. "One thing I can say for sure is serving was one of my favorite things to do. The excitement of making an ace is everything, and I'll never forget how happy I was playing this sport. Takes a lot of courage and determination."

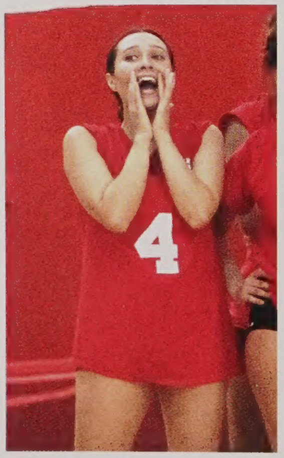
Senior Desire Carrion

This being the last high school season ever in her lifetime, she reflected on the year she has had. "It was an all right season because we could have done better, but overall it was a good season and definitely a fun one to remember."



WHAT IS YOUR FAVORITE CHANT?

"I like cheering after every point we get whether it be an ace or a kill. Since volleyball is really fast paced, I like having a moment to cheer on the team."
senior captain Annabelle Huston

"When we get an ace we say 'AAAAA ce YA' and I think it is so cute and fun."

CROSSING THE LINE

1. RUNNING TO VICTORY. Freshman John Paul Morris celebrates as he runs to the finish line. "Finishing a race was a great feeling. It makes you feel really accomplished," Morris said. "For me, the best part of running cross country was either when my sister and I both got first place in our races against Durfee, or when I got the chance to run at states on this really pretty golf course with a view of the ocean. I feel like I built a bond with a lot of the kids on the cross country team and it was a great way to start off my year."

2. HAPPY THOUGHTS. Sophmore Caroline Huston paces herself through the course. "I think it was challenging overall, but I made one of my best friends, Lena Morris, through the sport," Huston says, "I think the support from the coaches both athletically and academically helped me become a better person and motivated me to set more goals."

3. READY TO RUN. Junior captain Madalena Morris leads her team down the course. Morris had a couple of superstitions she kept to each race. "I like to wear the same pair of socks for every race," she said. "I also like to listen to the same playlist."

4. KEEP YOUR HEAD UP. Junior captain Madalena Morris high fives her teammate, senior Eduardo Camilo, as he completed his race. "Being a captain was pretty fun," Morris says, "this year, I got to do a lot of the recruiting, and I also helped out with organizing practices. Our team grew a lot this year, and it was fun to get to know everyone new. The girls team in particular had a great year, and we came in second at conference. Even though being captain can be a lot of responsibility, I am so grateful for the friendships that I made this year through cross country."

Where is your favorite place to run?

"Brooklawn Park. It was the most challenging course for me and I was able to overcome it and surpass my previous limits."
junior Adrian Orantes

"Barnstable Fairgrounds. Our course was lined with stringed lights and everyone seemed excited. People cheered for the runners as we ran through barns and trees with decorations."
junior Nolan Fox

"My favorite place to run was the Twilight Meet because the meet was so beautiful; we ran at night with the whole course lit up with lights."
senior Abby Zhang

HOW WAS RUNNING CROSS COUNTRY FOR THE FIRST TIME?

"It was a lot of fun and a good expierence it really helped me meet new people and long lasting friendships and it was really good to get involved in the school more."
senior Bella Colangelo

Jack and Jack:
When teammates have the same name

"At the beginning of the season our coach would not specify at all, but towards the end we figured it out because of the other people we would play with, for instance if he said Jack and Craig, I knew he meant me."
senior Jack DiMatteo

"I wasn't too confused throughout the season, I just knew I had to pay more attention to coach when he was talking so I knew if he meant me or the other Jack."
junior Jack Harding

How do you prepare for a match?

"I loved listening to music during warm-up swings to prepare for my matches. Some of my favorites were any Drake songs because I feel like they got me in the right mindset to play."
sophomore Trevor Rodriques

"I would like to go into it with a clear mindset, and I was always ready to have fun. I've been playing for so long that I don't really get nervous anymore, so I just try to enjoy myself."
senior captain Craig Baptista

FULL SWING AHEAD

1. CHIP CHIP HOORAY. Junior Jack Harding chips the ball uphill on the green. "Chipping was one of my favorite parts of golf. It is very satisfying to watch the ball get on to the green," Harding said. "It is less stressful than some of the other parts of the game." Harding's best round of the season was in the game versus Brockton, where he scored 12 points.

2. PUTT ABOVE THE REST. Senior Jack DiMatteo aims for the hole as he putts the ball for par. "I felt that I was very effective on the green this season," DiMatteo said. "Coach Bennett told me that I had a knack for scoring." DiMatteo had a season high 16 points in their 100-90 loss against Middleboro High School.

3. COUNT IT UP. Junior Luke Tarpey counts his shots while senior Jack DiMatteo cards his score. "This golf season was one of my favorites because of the people on the team. My co-captain Craig Baptista and I had a great time this year, playing our best golf and having fun while doing it," he said. Tarpey played a key role for the team this season, scoring the second most points points overall.

4.CHANGE THE NARRATIVE. Juniors Trinity Luiz and Emma Przybysz (right) walk to the next hole. Przbysz said, "My overall experience was fun, but difficult at times due to the lack of girls locker rooms at some of the courses." Her top scoring games was versus Brockton where she earned two points for the team.

5. ON THE GREEN. Senior Luke Ferreira watches his putt at hole three at the Whaling City Golf Course. Ferreira joined golf because he had a friend that would play with him when he was younger and decided that he wanted to play his senior year. "I always loved golf. I was happy that I got to play for the school this year," Ferreira said.

HOW DOES THE SCORING WORK?

"We use the Stableford scoring system, so we use points instead of strokes. If you get an eagle, it's five points, a birdie is four points, a par is three, a bogey is two, and a double bogey is one. Whoever gets the most points wins."
senior Cameron Molleo

FULL COURT PRESS

1. BATTLE FOR POSSESSION. During the game against Durfee, junior Carmine Torres fights for a loose ball as senior Isaiah Rocha looks to help. Senior Lexie-Marie FitzGerald joined the team for the first time this year after being a part of unified track and field last year. "The thing I enjoyed the most about being a part of the team was seeing the kids get better and seeing them grow," she said.

2. AIMING FOR TWO. Senior Juan Rubio Zepeda pulls up for a jump shot in the lane.

3. PASSING LANE. Looking to make an outlet pass, senior Josh Ferreira tries to find an open teammate.

4. BALL HANDLER. Driving through mid-court, senior Samiyah Miller takes the ball into the half court as junior Ava Kaplan trails. "Samiya is very outgoing and fun. She's always wanting to be on the court and play, so I just like being around her. We can make jokes together. We have just a nice relationship," Kaplan said. "I'm so glad I was able to meet her and work with her this year."

5. ON THE SIDELINE. Senior Darien Jack awaits his turn on the court.

6. TOP OF THE KEY. Junior Cole Silva makes a more down the lane in the offensive-court.

7. CROWDED LANE. Amid two Durfee defenders, senior Liam Moniz tries to clear space for a shot. "Liam as a player is very passionate," senior teammate Lexie-Marie FitzGerald said. "He seemed to really enjoy the sport. Liam would bring up the team when we are down and put us in the lead, he never cared who was on the other team, if Liam had the ball he was going to score."

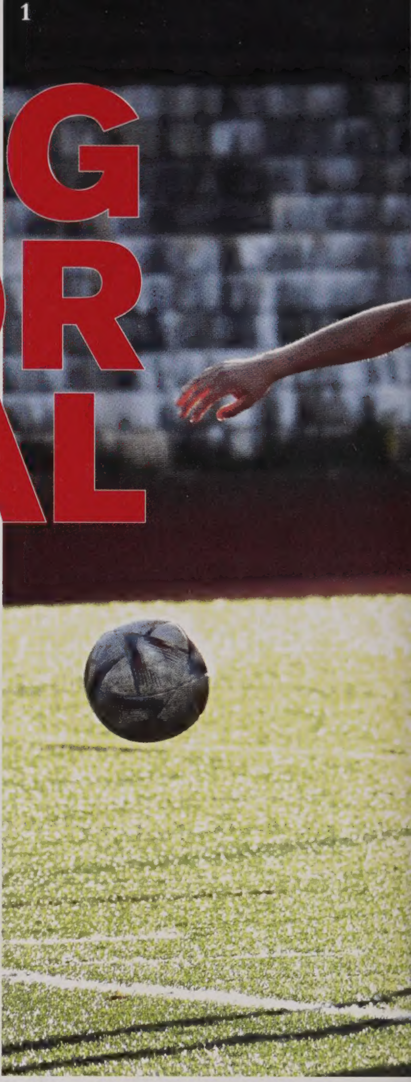
GOING FOR GOAL



How was this your most successful season?

"My most successful year was this year because I had become a captain and an SEC All-Star, and I was recognized as a part of one of South Coast's strongest defenses."
senior captain Gabriel Peixoto

"My most successful season was (this) year because last year was my first year on varsity, so I was nervous almost every game, but this year I felt more comfortable and confident."
junior goalie Nelson Molina

"I felt this year was my best season because it was my first year and I was able to get a lot of playing time and be able to grow as a player."

1. DEFENDING THE GOAL. Sophomore fullback Edahi Mejia shields the ball away from the Voc Tech Winger. When recalling the match, Mejia said, "There was a lot of pressure.It was a big rivalry game. The whole team gave it their all and made sure we didn't lose." With just a few minutes left in the match, Mejia scored a striking goal from 30 yards out to finish the game off at 1-1.

2. DRIBBLE IT UP. Junior striker Nicholas "Skippy" Rosa takes a first touch into space looking for a game-tying goal. With it being his second season on varsity, he was hoped to have a season as strong as his last. "Brockton was one of our best games," Rosa said. "We went in feeling ready to win, and we left everything we had out there."

3. TAKE HIM ON. Junior midfielder Albert Duran takes on the Brockton defender for a one-on-one. "I felt that I had to prove myself because it was my first full year on varsity," Duran said. Duran got the varsity call up in last year's state preliminary round, and was excited to show his growth as a player this season.

4. SLIDING IN. Sophomore winger Joao Pedro Dos Santos slides in to stop the pass from connecting. "Even though this wasn't the year that I scored the most goals, it was my first year on varsity, so I was happy I got to play in every game," he said. With the loss of 13 seniors last season, young players like Dos Santos were able to get their call up this season, and the ability to show how they could contribute the team's winning history.

5. KEEPING TRADITION. The starting 11 for the inter-city rivalry game versus Voc Tech line up with the U12 Saint Michael's Futebol Club team in honor of their Senior Night. "It was special," senior captain Troy Rocha said. "Knowing that these kids look up to us and will one day be in our shoes makes the experience so surreal." Rocha notched in an assist in his final regular season game as a Whaler in the 1-1 tie.

DOES THE STRONG HISTORY OF THE TEAM ADDS PRESSURE FOR STATES?

"Playing in states is very difficult and I felt very nervous, but as the game goes I enjoyed the experience, and it felt good to play. With our boys soccer team having a nice history, you feel like you have to do your best and leave everything on the field like the other players did."
senior captain Kevin Herrera Cerrato

PLAYING FOR A PURPOSE

Before his senior night, Troy Rocha decided to pay homage to his friend's grandfather who had died two weeks before. "I chose to wear a John Costa shirt because he had meant a lot to my close friend and her family," Rocha said. "It was my motivation to play better, and also a great chance to pay tribute."

"Going into states, I felt confident in the team despite the lack of experience most of the team had considering we had so many young guys. I knew I could trust them to lock in when we needed it and we did, although we did not come out on top. Historically, NBHS's boys soccer team has been extremely successful and feared by other teams. The pressure to maintain that image and preserve our history is definitely felt."
senior captain Carter Barbosa

WHAT'S IT LIKE BEING A DEFENDER?

"My favorite part is the excitement of being able to bond with new players and being able to have fun with the team."
junior Becky Zheng

HER STORY

Senior Lexie-Marie FitzGerald has been playing soccer for 10 years. "I started playing soccer out of interest. My family was a bunch of soccer players and people interested in soccer. Then, I ended up having friends that were playing on a team, and my next-door neighbor (and) childhood best friend's dad was a coach. So they had asked me to go play with them and the love grew stronger and stronger. Soccer became my outlet to get away from everything, and I was making my grandfather proud, which was the biggest thing about it all. Seeing him happy that I was playing and succeeding made everything worth it. Since then, I've been playing soccer for years."

BACK OF THE NET

1. STOP THAT BALL. Junior Caitlyn Cordeiro punts the ball to her team to start an attack. "I enjoy getting to punt," Cordeiro said. "Since I've been playing goalie for so long, I've been able to get good at them." After another strong year, Cordeiro won her third straight team MVP award.

2. DRIBBLE TO SUCCESS. Sophomore Chanel Hinojosa is dribbling down the field in attempts to make a pass to her teammates. Hinojosa was the only non-senior to put away a goal this season versus Diman Voc Tech on Oct. 25th.

3. FROM THE CORNER. Senior captain Ollie Costa takes a corner kick, looking to connect with a teammate for a goal. "Although it wasn't our best season, I feel like the team really came together by the end of the year and showed great chemistry," Costa said.

4. APPLY THE PRESSURE. Freshman Emma Spooner pressures the Durfee player trying to get her to lose the ball in order to gain possession. "My first year for playing for soccer was exciting and seemed like a lot at first, but I made some friends and that made it so exciting," she said.

5. ON THREE. The team meets on the sideline for their customary pep talk immediately before the start of the game.

Who inspires you?

"In my opinion my biggest inspiration player would probably be Ollie, mostly because we play the same position, and since I'm fairly new, she was kind of like a mentor to me and very encouraging."
freshman Amaya Pastor Norales

"My dad because it's how we bonded together, and he taught me a lot, and he never let me give up even though there were multiple times I wanted to quit. But he just motivates me to go back and be better."
junior Alex Martinez

"Caitlin Almeida is my inspiration because even though she could be harsh during the game, that's just because she cares and believes you could do better than what your doing. She basically adopted me as a freshman and (was) someone who talked to me when I first arrived."
sophomore Fredricka Freire

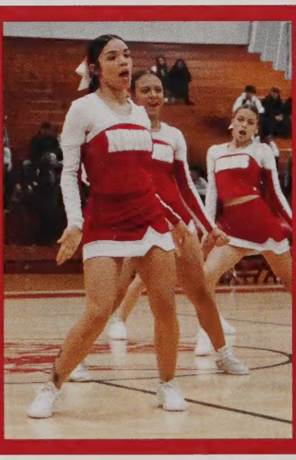
"Being a captain with Steff was really surprising, but it was also very challenging. I always wanted to be a captain with my sister, but it was more than that too. We're both cheerleaders that work hard, and we aren't different from any of the other girls. Overall, it was a great experience."
junior fall/winter cheer captain Georgina Rodriguez



"Being captains with GG was honestly unexpected. We communicated more, learned to bring the girls together in different ways and just be ourselves with the girls. It's an amazing experience to be with my sister, but everyone had a voice and a way to lead the team."
junior winter cheer captain Estiffany Rodriguez

RISE TO THE TOP

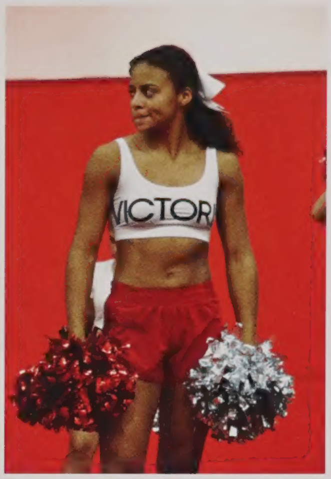
1. LET'S GLOW CRAZY. The bases lift up their flyers junior Jayliana Collazo, freshman Elena Monteiro and freshman Janiya Reed to complete a pyramid at the fall pep rally the day before Thanksgiving in the gym. Junior Jayliana Collazo explained that "being a flier is both fun and scary at the same time."

2. LAST RIDE. Senior captains Marisol Mendoza and Aria Ferreira preform their senior pep rally choreography in front of the school. "My senior year was the most memorable year for me," Ferreira said. "I will always miss losing my voice at the football games, but I think Pep Rally was the most fun moment out of the whole season, even with the difficulties we had getting it set up. Being in front of the whole school was scary but seeing everyone smiling and cheering made it worth it." Ferreira fought through injuries for most of the season but was able to cheer at Pep Rally and senior night, which was most important to her.

3. JUMP FOR JOY. The winter cheer team does their halftime performance at the boys basketball game. "Winter season for me was really stressful due to it being competition season as well, but I was so happy to get to spend my last year with a great group of girls." senior captain Marisol Mendoza said. Mendoza had cheered in both fall and winter all four of her years on the team, and was a great asset to basing.

4. PUMP UP THE CROWD. Using the megaphone, sophomore cheerleader Maddie Silveira rallies the crowd in a cheer. "It gets the crowd's attention," Silveira said about the megaphone. "Everyone likes having something big in their face when cheering. Sometimes the pompoms aren't enough.

SCHOOL SPIRIT



"I have been cheering for 10 years and had only cheered for all-stars or club up until this season. Having experience cheering before helped me with making the team. I had some of my best moments cheering while I was cheering at the high school with these girls. The cheer team is always positive and I have met some amazing people and worked with some amazing coaches. Although high school cheer is very different from the other cheering I've done, I love getting to show my school spirit."
junior Quintiyah Drummer

THE TEAM'S BEST STUNTS

"My favorite stunt of this season was the pyramid because we had all worked really hard on perfecting it."
freshman flier Janiya Reed

"Flipping out. My favorite stunt is Jayliana's ball out. Every time we do it at the games it always makes the team laugh and smile."

PIN IT TO WIN IT

1. BRING IT IN. The wrestling team huddles up to do a final chant before their match begins. Before every match, they had a walk-out song to helps them get ready for their match and get hyped up. To get ready, sophomore Robert Figueroa said, "I like to listen to Kendrick Lamar, and I'll just practice the moves I'm going to do, and I'll bounce around here and there and get my lower body moving, especially my hips, and I also just like to stare down my opponent."

2. FACE OFF. Senior captain Tayel Guzman faces off against Durfee's wrestler. Guzman had 22 pins this season, and he even competed at the state tournament. "I set a goal at the beginning of the season to get to states, and I achieved that goal, placing seventh in the state tournament," Guzman said.

3. DIRECT ATTACK. Senior Henry Aj takes a Durfee opponent over his shoulder in an attempt to get him on the mat to get a pin.

4. FACING DOWN. Sophomore Josiah Martins Semedo holds his opponent as close to the mat as possible in hopes to get his in the right position to get a pin. Semedo was on track to nationals due to his incredible season.

5. GET DOWN. Sophomore Dereon Tremblay uses a tactical mean of motion to get his opponent out of balance to get him down. Tremblay also made it to nationals in Virginia Beach.

HOW DID IT FEEL TO HAVE COACH SENTES BACK?

"It was a relief to have Coach Sentes back. He had coached me my sophomore year before he had left. The year that he left didn't feel the same at all, but when he came back I felt like a whole new wrestler."
senior captain Tayel Guzman

BOUND FOR NATIONALS

"I was extremely proud of the six athletes that competed at both the Nike and Adidas national championship meets. These athletes worked so hard to get to these meets, and as their coach, it was an amazing feeling to watch them achieve their goal. Each athlete took representing their city seriously, and they did so with class and integrity. They have set the standard for future New Bedford track athletes."
head coach Paul Jasinski

MY FAVORITE EVENT

"My favorite event this season was long jump because I felt that it was the greatest challenge I faced, but it also felt very rewarding to do well in."
junior long jumper Clayton Pastor Norales

My favorite event was the 300 meter race because it was the perfect balance of a sprint with a bit of distance as well.

SOMETHING TO PROVE

Junior Ann-Muller Antoine launches into a long jump. In her first year hurdling, Antoine was able to secure silver at the SEC championship. She finished the season with a 9.99 in the 55-meter hurdles. "Being the only hurdler on the team, I felt like I had to show everyone what I could do," she said.
junior Ann-Muller Antoine

JUMP FOR JOY

1. GREAT LENGTHS. Sophomore long jumper Michael Antunes lands in the sand to complete his jump. "I didn't think that I would have as strong of a season as I did, but it was a great surprise, Antunes said. In his first season jumping, he was able to jump 20 feet.

2. GOING THE EXTRA MILE. Freshman two-mile runner Natalie DiMatteo attacks the curve with two Brockton runners right behind her. She said "At first I ran the two mile because I wasn't sure that I was fast enough to do short distance events. Even though I started out running it to get points for the team, it turned into something I genuinely wanted to get better at." DiMatteo finished her season running a 16:01, cutting two minutes off of her time.

3. UP AND OVER. Junior high jumper Lily Gonet clears opening height at the Reggie Lewis Center. "I really enjoyed high jump," Gonet said. "It was so fun but became difficult when it conflicted with my 600-meter race." Her best meet was in the win versus Durfee High School, where she was able to run her season best of a 2:02.

4. NEED FOR SPEED. Senior captain Nathaniel Stafford goes all out for the last 50 meters of his race. "My success this season was a testament to the effort i've been putting in since I joined, seeing the progress I made this year was extremely rewarding." In the final league meet of the season, Stafford ran a 40.09 second 300-meter sprint.

5. TAKING CHARGE. Freshman Johann Reyes extends his lead in the meet versus Brockton. Reyes had started his season on a difficult note, but was able to make considerable progress, becoming one of the team's strongest 300 runners.

FAST BREAK FRENZY

1. AROUND THE CORNER. Senior Anthony Diakite uses his defensive skills to dribble the ball past the Spartans and move for a layup to gain a two-point shot. Diakite averaged 12 rebounds per game and was named a Conference All-Star.

2. LOOK OUT. Senior captain Craig Baptista dribbles the ball around the Bishop Stang Spartans in attempts to pass the ball to his teammates or make a three-pointer. Craig Baptista was known all season for his three-point shots, averaging nearly three per game, and great movement on the court, giving everyone a chance with the ball, and he also was named a Conference All-Star.

3. SHOOT YOUR SHOT. Senior Javion Lloyd's position on the team is a point guard in which he uses this position to steal the ball and get a two-point shot against the Spartans."My opinions on the season were that it wasn't much of a great season, but I loved the fact I grew bigger bonds with my teammates which mattered a lot to me," said Lloyd, who earned conference honorable mention.

4. DRIBBLE THE DREAM. Junior Jarren Goodine heads down the court with the ball to pass to the shooting guard of the team.

WHAT TEAM DO YOU LOOK FOWARD TO PLAYING?

"I always love playing against teams like Dartmouth or Durfee because there is always a ton of energy with great atmosphere."
sophmore Isaac Rivera

WHAT'S YOUR FAVORITE PRO TEAM?

"My favorite professional basketball team is the Golden State Warriors because I've always been a huge fan of the team and a player named Stephen Curry since I started playing basketball."
senior Javion Lloyd

"Celtics because it's my hometown team, so I grew up liking them."
junior Julez Johnson

ORDER ON THE COURT

1. CROSSOVER ACTION. Senior Lexi Thompson looks around the court to see who is open while keeping the ball in control against the Durfee Hilltoppers. "I've been playing starting point guard for four years, and it is definitely a hard task because you have to control the floor," she said. Thompson led the team in steals and assists and was second in points in the conference. She earned numerous awards, including SEC All-Star, a Rick Jalbert All-Star game selection, and was in the top three for the Dave Cowens Award.

2. HOOP LOW, HOPE HIGH. Senior Lexie FitzGerald works to keep her energy up, and that of her teammates, on the court and off. She said she improved this season in her confidence which then led to the way she played. "My position on the team is someone who brings up the energy," she said. "When someone is struggling within themselves, I would try my best to get them into a better mindset. I just tried to keep the energy up to the best of my ability, to keep the game energy up."

3. FRESH BREEZE. Going for the shot, freshman Alaysha Sylvia-Figueroa, looks for a two-point bucket. She had a strong season, the first one playing in high school and having two key role positions. "Playing SG (shooting guard) with an important role was fun and beneficial to my skills as a player," she said. "Playing backup PG (point guard) was challenging, and it's definitely something hard to adapt to, knowing you're the reason if offense works or not." Sylvia-Figueroa started every game as a freshman and let the conference in rebounds, earning SEC honorable mention.

4. KNOW YOUR COURT. Coach Jordan Pina leads a pre-game talk before a game, as he did for every game, to get the team on track to win and get the right mindset for the game.

5. ONE SHOT, ONE GOAL. Junior Zaria Anderson goes for the jump shot in the game to end the quarter right. Anderson was named an SEC All-Star, placing third in scoring in the conference, and was a Rick Jalbert All-Star selection.

6. CAN'T GUARD ME. Junior Ava Kaplan pushes through the Durfee Hilltoppers in hopes to get a point during her layup. "I feel I improved in maintaining my role on the court and becoming more comfortable in being a leader and talking to my teammates," she said.

WHAT POSITION DO YOU PLAY?

"I am a forward, and it consists of a lot of layups, 10-foot jumpers, rebounding and work on the block."
senior Hayleigh Chenard

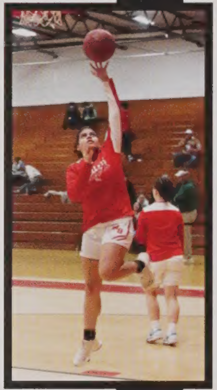
How do you hype up your teammates?

"I hype up my teammates by dancing and turning them up on and off of the court."
senior Alexis Rebello



"I hype my teammates up by clapping and giving them high fives when they get off the court and perform well on the court."
senior Saray Rios

FLYING THROUGH WATER

1. MAKING WAVES. Junior Joao DeSouza surfaces from the butterfly. "It was good," he said about the season. "Spirits were at an all-time high. We won the SEC, and even when we lost, which was very little, we were still in good spirit. Lot of fun and rigorous memories were made this year."

2. PUSHING FORWARD. Freshman Zidan Ferreira pushes himself forward in the freestyle. "I think the season went really well," he said. "The coaches taught us everything we needed to know, and some of my other team members also helped out."

3. GOOD VIBES. Pacing the pool deck, freshman Daniel Lin cheers on his teammates. "I feel like my season went well," Lin said. "I did not win a lot, but it still felt great."

4. ON YOUR MARKS. Focusing on the task ahead. junior Owen Jupin gets on his blocks in preparation to swim his race. "I feel like I did really well this season and made overall improvements in my endurance, as well as my times in the 50 free and 100 free," Jupin said.

5. FAN FAVORITE. Freshman Samuel Wells cuts through the water as he attacks the freestyle. "I really enjoyed this swim season," Wells said. "I was able to accomplish a lot, and out of all the sports I do, I can now say that swimming is my favorite. I swam the 100 freestyle and the 100 backstroke."

6. PERSEVERANCE PAYS OFF. Seniors Luis Santana Tinoco and Keneth Guerra Medina watch their teammates compete in a relay. "I think this season was by far the best because I was in a good shape, so it wasn't hard," Santano Tinoco said. "I think that the best part of it was that I was able to do dive, even though I wasn't really good at it. I also think the people in swim gave it their best, and at least tried in every meet. It was very nice seeing improvement, not only in me but also my teammates and friends as well."

WHAT'S YOUR LEAST FAVORITE STROKE?

"Definitely butterfly because it takes the most strength and time to get better at it, and not everybody ends up being good at it."
senior Jarien Cardenas

"Butterfly because it exhausts you. It causes the most muscle fatigue."
freshman Max Sylvia

IN THE FAST LANE

1. LET'S GET LOUD. Senior captain Jalysa Noriega and senior Maria Oliveira cheer on a teammate during a meet. Swim meets were notorious for loud, echoing cheers throughout the swim events.

2. ON THE BLOCKS. Freshman Leila Russo steadies herself before the start of the 100-meter backstroke. "My season went really good, I'm really proud of how a swam this season," Russo said.

3. DECKSIDE CHEER. Senior Madison Rodrigues cheers from the side of the pool. "I think my season went pretty well," Roderigues said. "I will admit, I am not that athletic, but I swam in every meet. I even swam in my own individual event where I broke my (personal record) by 10 seconds. This was one of my favorite seasons by far. It was so bittersweet showing up knowing this was it. I am extremely grateful for the coaches and my friends on the team who made this last season such a special one."

4. STEADY PACE. Freshman Savannah Medeiros paces herself during a freestyle event. Looking back on the season, "I think it went great. We only lost two times, and we won conference and a few of our teammates went to states," she said.

DIVING THROUGH IT

"It definitely took a while to get used to the new schedule and environment than what we were used to at UMass, but finally being able to dive at our own school was amazing. Practice would always be so fun because we learned new, scary dives together and sometimes Mr. Curry would even let us play diving games to improve our skills."

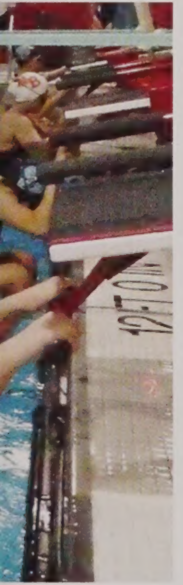
sophomore Jacqui Bank

"This dive season was tough yet exhilarating. The team and I pushed ourselves to new limits with each dive and strove to make this season the best one yet. Despite some of the hardships of going against tough competitors, the excitement of just being able to go out and do something enjoyable made it all worth it."

senior Leslie Padilla

SELECTED SNACKS

What is the fuel of choice of swimmers and divers? "I brought goldfish, fruit snacks, and protein bars."
freshman Nora Politano



HOW DOES IT FEEL TO BE SEC CHAMPS 3 YEARS IN A ROW?

"It felt so good to be back at our own pool this year, it felt like we were much more organized and put together and we really felt like a New Bedford swim team again. We were able to get a strong practice in and each person was able to better themselves as athletes."
senior Maria Oliveira

"Nothing compares to winning at your own pool during your senior year."

PEOPLE

what did you expect?

With such a diverse population, New Bedford High is always expected to produce some amazing students, and this year was no exception.

We had a budding actor in senior Elijah Carrion, a pageant winner in senior Emma Gibney, an involved award-winning pianist in junior Elliott Talley and many others representing the New Bedford community.

Students and faculty came together in new ways with a Dodgeball Tournament, and, as always, class officers and advisers supported each other and their grades with fun activities and fundraisers.

The school culture is built on cooperation and support from tireless administrators, teachers and students of all different backgrounds and interests, and while we don't know exactly what they will dream up, we know it won't disappoint.

3.14 ... PIE. Junior Samuel Zhang pies social studies teacher Michael Gryss for the junior Pie Day fundraiser. "Pie-ing the teachers was to represent Pi Day 3/14 and also raise funds for the Class of 2025, contributing to major events such as Junior Banquet and Prom," Zhang said.

PICTURE DAY. Sophomore Cayreen Quintin sits for a portrait on picture day. ELA classes were utilized again for taking underclass students, while seniors made appointments at Mare Studios or another photographer or could get a basic, single pose session at school.

"It was surreal and bittersweet, like wow this is really happening and this is really it."
senior Madison Rodrigues

"Senior sunrise felt almost like a 'you made it' moment, I felt accomplished and proud that I stuck through everything in the years prior and was so excited to finally be a senior. To begin it with some of my best friends and share that moment with them was amazing and the best way I could have started my final year."
senior Maria Oliveira

"My favorite senior tradition is senior sunrise! There couldn't be a better way to start off the year than making posters with my friends & getting to celebrate our last year together. Whaler pride, excitement, and eagerness were definitely felt throughout the entire morning."

Wrapping things up

TYING ONE OFF. Seniors Carlos Carvalho Ribeiro (right in top photo) and Rinaldy Barea Velez (bottom photo) wrap up a rope after the cadets finished the "one-rope bridge" exercise outside blue house during Raider Practice for JROTC. "Through the two years that I have been in the program, I managed to learned crucial life skills such as discipline, empathy and compassion, problem-solving, decision-making, among others," Barea Velez said. "I also managed to get crucial insight (and) experience of what the jobs and responsibilities of a leader are, and how even when these positions of high leadership look simple, they really aren't. Some other things I gained from this program are getting to know people with the same goals as me and be friends with real trustworthy people that I know have a bright future ahead of them. Being a part of the JROTC program was the best thing that happened to me. Not only because of the amount of opportunities this one provides for the future, but because it personally helped me come out of my shell and be a better person that I know my younger self as well as my family will be proud of."

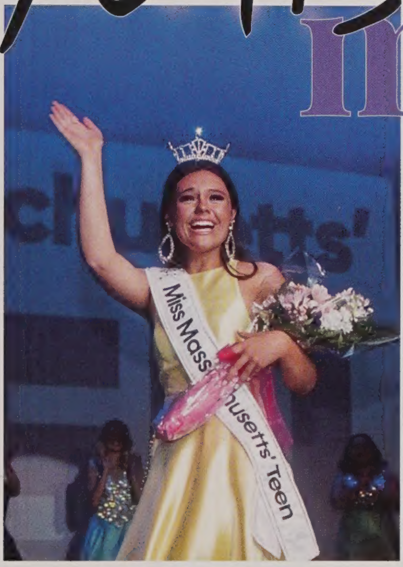
Miss mass teen



Meet the senior representing NBHS and Massachusetts

Miss Massachusetts Teen

"Being Miss Mass Teen was never really on my radar. Compared to the other girls competing I was new and very inexperienced, but the organization once I got involved was something I knew I had to be a part of! It's all about community service, which is something I am super big on ever since I was a kid. Winning the state title was a huge deal to me, I now have a bigger platform to talk about my community service initiative. It was a once in a lifetime experience to represent not only Massachusetts but New Bedford at Miss America's Teen."

Joined by Edenilson Semedo and Nialonis Smith, they all represented New Bedford High School at nationals in March 2024. This was made possible by their hard work, plus funding and support from the community. "I think being able to go to nationals was one of the best experiences I had throughout my track career" Brine said. "It is so cool to interact with the most talented athletes from around the country and watch them compete. Personal posters

Film Study 2 students talk about their favorite films they watched n class during the year.

Wrapping things up

JROTC team captain Liliana Bruno takes on clean-up duty at an after-school practice. The cadets strung a "one-rope bridge" between two trees and took turns traversing the span while hanging below the rope. "In my time in JROTC I have learned a lot of leadership skills and also how to be independent and how to take charge especially as the Drill Color Guard, PT(Physical Fitness) and as the Raider Captain while just being a sophomore," said Bruno, whose rank was staff sergeant.

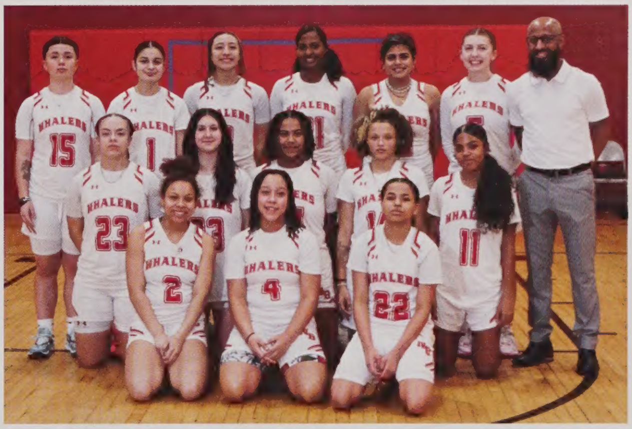
Setting, and achieving, a goal



GOAL SETTER. At the beginning of the year, freshman Jonila Ramos said in her yearbook questionnaire that one of her goals was "To make varsity basketball by sophomore year, starter by junior." She made her goal a year earlier, making the varsity girls basketball team her freshman year. Ramos is in the center of the front row in the team photo. Similarly, freshman Rory Johnson recalled in his questionnaire that his favorite high school experience so far was "I made varsity football as a freshman."

Let the hunt begin

ITTHROAT COMPETITION. The ELA and ESL partments squared off in the second annual ıster Egg Hunt after school on March 28. Each le hid 93 eggs in three classrooms for the other am to then find. The ESL department won ndily, finding all 93 before the ELA partment found 80.

THE VICTORS. ESL department members ayfully argue with the ELA team about ffering interpretations of the rules after they ere declared the winners.

ANY LUCK? ELA teacher M'Lou Kazimer looks r eggs that might be wedged under the desks.

I FOUND ONE. ELA teacher Lauren Wrigley

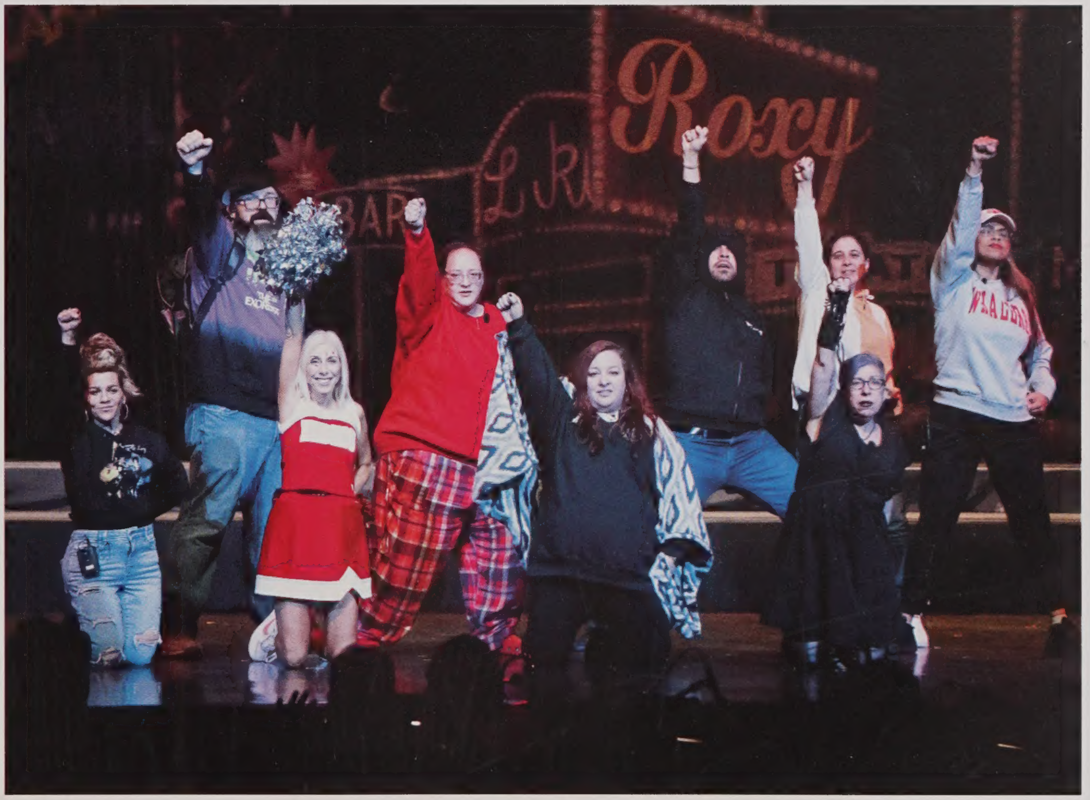
PHOTOS WE LOVED

TEACHER TALENT. Members of the faculty and staff close out their number, which included singing and dancing, to "Singing in the City," the first half of the spring musical that led into "Six: The Musical." The song was "Revolting Children," from the musical "Matilda," and part of the joke leading into the number was about how frequently adults play the roles of children in stage productions.



what did you expect?

With an ever-increasing list of clubs and organizations offered, there's no limit to what students can explore both during and after school.

The band never lets us down, placing well in multiple competitions, Winter Guard getting first place in finals for the first time in 20 years, and neither did the newspaper, always working to report current school events and news.

Groups such as the Great Outdoors Club and Key Club were able to venture into the community at the aquarium, and volunteering at a local Applebees. JROTC represented our school at multiple parades with color guard beside them.

The start of the Black History Club continued the tradition of new club offerings. Our clubs and organizations represented our student body, and there's no limit to what that can be.

1. PACE IT OFF. Cadets in JROTC who are a part of the Raider Team begin their two-mile run around the school, led by senior and cadet captain Christian Livramento. JROTC was a popular option for students, and cadets served the school in many ways. "In order to be a part of the Raider Team, you must have the physical strength and stamina to be on the team, and running is the most crucial component of the team," Livramento said. "In JROTC, the experience may vary depending on the cadet, but one of the most important lessons that any cadet in the program learns is self discipline. This skill helps enable anyone to accomplish a task, as discipline makes things easy and brings success in our lives."

2. EMRACING K. HOWARD. Junior Jaelyn Rodericks performs in "Six: The Musical" as the fifth queen, Catherine Howard. "My time in 'Six' has been a very stressful and rewarding process," Rodericks said. "Pairing a crazy and upbeat musical like 'Six' with a revue definitely made the rehearsal process crazy, but it was still so fun as always, and it's turned out amazing in the end. I love this show."

SKILLS USA

SkillsUSA is a student-led organization whose mission is to empower students to become skilled professionals, career-ready leaders and responsible community members through Personal Skills, Workplace Skills and Technical Skill

SKILLS USA: Layla Torres, Heidy Perez Matzatz, Kimberly Tzoy-Morente, Jack Titla-Mora, Orlando Vieira da Silva, Jonathan Vargas Martinez, Sponsor Colleen Hall

1. DRONE WORK. Jonathan Vargas Martinez and Orlando Vieira da Silva check out a booth at the Skills USA conference. "I was flying a drone created by Tech Ed at Gillette stadium for Skills USA SAILs and the drone was pretty impressive," Vieira da Silva said. He, Vargas Martinez and senior Layla Torres all earned the SAIL Graduate Proficiency Credential at the event.

2, TECH WORK. Senior Jonathan Vargas Martinez tries out computer equipment at the SkillsUSA SAILs (Senior Adventures In Leadership) conference. "I was testing out a 3D computer with the pen that makes it seem like objects were floating over the computer," Vargas Martinez said.

BLACK HISTORY CLUB

The club promotes positive representations of African American culture and stands in solidarity with all people in pursuit of a just society.

BLACK HISTORY CLUB MEMBERS: Carter Barbosa, Kaylah-Ann Francis, Fredricka Freire, Thamara Semedo, Camilla Adhaora Monteiro, Kyleah Bodden, Joelma Teixeira Moreira, Elliott Talley, Saray Rios, Chanteal Martin, Brandan McKenna, Olivia Simonton, Quintiyah Drummer, Celia Tango, Carlos Brito Semedo, Nivea Leslie, Neptune Burks, Kibi Williams-Brown (sponsor)

"The Black History Club is a very welcoming and intellectual community. We talk about issues that go on in America regarding African-Americans and we share our opinions on them. My favorite thing about the club is being able to voice my opinions and get insight on them. Ms. Williams does an amazing job mentoring the club and also giving us feedback on certain topics. The most interesting thing about the club is how we all can share our thoughts on issues and events without having to feel judged."

The club competes as a team in the Eastern Massachusetts Debate League. Students work together to develop arguments and practice public speaking. Debate helps students learn about national and global issues.

"This year's resolve was 'The United States government should substantially increase fiscal redistribution in the United States by Adopting a federal jobs guarantee, expanding Social Security, and/or providing a basic income.' My favorite topic to discuss and debate against within that scope was universal basic income, because it allowed room for more creativity, and some of the best plans were for universal basic income. My favorite thing about the club/team is how we collaborate on the topics. It was a generally fun place to be."
SENIOR CAMILLA MONTEIRO

"Our team is so supportive. In our league, we debate in pairs, and I am fortunate that my partner is my best friend, Kimberly. Debate is an intense commitment, and I'm grateful that we are able to have fun together, so it doesn't feel like work. Mr. Roveda runs the debate club, and his continuous encouragement makes it easy for everyone to participate as well. One of the most interesting aspects of the club is that each year we receive a new resolution, or topic, to debate. Since we debate the same topic for the whole year, we get to learn a lot about it, including different perspectives on the issue, which makes our research engaging."
SENIOR KIVA BANK

"Being on the debate team was an honest pleasure I was happy to be a part of. The team shows outstanding amounts of teamwork within each other and are amazing at handling victories, losses and everything between, no matter how great. The most interesting concept of debate is just how passionate the people can become with topics and how intrigued you can become from just listening to opposing opinions."

MAGIC: THE GATHERING

" I helped start the Magic The Gathering club, when I came here from my middle school I was in a club similar to this one. I thought that maybe I could bring the fun and enjoyment I had there over here and teach others the games that brought happiness to many others. My favorite part about the club, probably that we hold no grudges and welcome all. we teach anyone new and hole bigger games for those who already know them."

"I joined the club to find other people who liked playing the game and found it as interesting as I do and what I enjoyed the most was seeing all the different way the game could be played and the unique art and cards."

Colophon

The Crimson Log is the yearbook of New Bedford High School. It is produced by the students of the School Publications 1 and 2 classes and members of the after-school Yearbook Club. The adviser is Bretton Zinger.

The 8.5-by-11-inch book was delivered in mid-May. The cover uses four-color lithography with gloss lamination. The book has 192 pages of full-color on 80# matte stock.

The staff designed the pages on Dell laptop computers, using eDesign, the proprietary online program from Herff Jones, as well as the Canva app integrated in eDesign. The cover was designed by Eva Politano, with input from the student staff. All fonts, except some used in ads, are from the AHJ Craft Gothic, AHJ Begamo and AHJ Handschrift Print and AHJ Playfair Display families.

The studio portrait photography is done by Mare Studios. Candid photography is by the yearbook staff and Mare Studios.

The cost of the book started at $80 and increased throughout the year to $100 upon delivery. It was printed using offset lithography at the Herff Jones plant in Edwardsville, Kansas.

Thank you

To Pam Szaro, the Herff Jones representative, for her continued support, encouragement and expertise, as well as the rest of the Herff Jones team, especially Shaylen Harris, our customer service representative.

To the NBHS administration and staff, especially Principal Bernadette Coelho (through December), Principal Joyce Cardoza (starting in January) and Associate Principal Jeff Longo, for their suppor throughout the year. To the house administrative assistants for their patience and cheer in fielding an endless stream of questions and students looking for information.

To the entire NBHS faculty and staff for their cooperation with all manner of requests. You made our work easier.

To Mare Studios, and Janet White especially, for their excellent photography, endless patience with minor questions and flexibility in scheduling. The book is so much richer and more complete because of your contributions.

And to the students! This book is by and for students, and we thank you for your help in making it the best we could. Go Whalers!

The yearbook is a time capsule that holds memories from our high school years, just with a hard cover and a papers in the middle. But it doesn't just happen automatically, time and effort is put into the process of making a high quality book that you can look back on and remember everything that happened from that year.

Although the creation of the yearbook can be stressful at times, the end result is always worth it. We start off by coming up with what we think made this year so special, then create a theme based off of those ideas. "What did you expect?" was the theme we came up with this year. It shows events and topics that we expected or didn't expect throughout the year. Next, we put our staff to work.

We have a hardworking staff who has put in a lot of effort to make this book as best and thorough as possible. Your dedication is commendable and for that we thank you. The staff are not the only people who put in work to create this book, there are students from outside the class room who have helped out tremendously, we could not have had what we have in here without you.

We would also like to thank all the students and staff that were quoted. You provided us with the information needed to bring this boo to life. And the biggest thank to Mr. Zinger. You help us in a time crunch and provide your honest opinion about a spread to make it perfect. Without you there would be no yearbook class, therefore no yearbook.

We had so much fun coming up with everything that is in this boo and broadening our yearbook knowledge. It was an honor to be this year's Editor-in-Chief and Co-Editor. Whalers, we hope you enjoyed this book as much as we enjoyed making it.

GOOD LUCK TO

what did you expect?

So many things changed that we never expected, but our traditions and yearly events we could count on.

From our annual fall Pep Rally to our new spring Pep Rally, plus new and old classes improved with state-of-the-art equipment and technology, there were many exciting things for all of our students to experience. MCAS and APs were stressful times for Whalers, but we persevered through them.

New Bedford High School never disappointed with switching things up and improving the school for students and staff. We had a school wide event for the full solar eclipse on 4/8.

Regardless of implemented changes, Whalers are what make New Bedford High School, and we will always be there.

1. SKY VIEW. (From left) Junior Carlos Lux, junior Dakota Mathieu, senior Henry Aj and sophomore Anthony Ventura watch the partial eclipse after school on April 8. The school provided free viewing glasses and a food truck in the gym parking lot to students who stayed for the event. 2. SINGING SUCCESS. During "Singing in the City," senior Destiny Gracia belts out a number toward the end. The spring play was two productions: "Singing in the City" and "Six: The Musical." 3. ST. PATTY'S SPIRIT. Juniors Xander Faria, Jack Harding, and Nolan Fox dress up as leprechauns for St. Patrick's Day,"We had already planned to wear the costumes for the half marathon, so we could get some dad lore, and when we heard that there would be a spirit day, we thought it would be even better to dress up together," Fox said. 4. DOOR DAY. Before the Pep Rally the day before Thanksgiving, juniors Maya Ferbert and Emma Przybysz work on homeroom door decorating. 5. ON A BREAK. During a 'stress break' day in AP Research the week before Halloween, sophomore Belle Almeida shows off her handiwork.

RAISING EXPECTATIONS. At the Talent Show in February, junior Juliana Fernandes sings "Diamonds" by Rihanna, earning runner-up for her efforts. "I wanted to perform because I want to feel the experience and be able to show my talent," Fernandes said. "Going through this experience showed me what I could've done to better my performance and what I could add on to make it more entertaining."
